Year-on-year rise in states' revenue

April GST mop-up at all-time high of ₹1.68L cr

Gross collection ₹25,000 crore more than the next highest of ₹1,42,095 crore which was registered in March

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE GST revenue continued to break new records with the monthly mop-up breaching the ₹1.5 lakh crore mark for the first time ever in April.

At ₹1,67,540 crore, April's collection was 20% more than the figure in the same month last year. The previous highest collection was recorded in March last, when the government received ₹1,42,095 crore.

The government attributed this growth in collection to improvement in compliance. The finance ministry in its statement on Sunday said the administration has taken various measures to nudge taxpayers to file returns on time, make compliances easier and take strict action against evaders identified based on data analytics and artificial intelligence.

As many as 1.06 crore GST returns were filed in GSTR-3B during the month. Of them, 97 lakh returns were for transactions in March (as compared to total 92 lakh in the same month a year ago). Return filing percentage in April was at 84.7% compared to 78.3% a year ago.

GSTR-3B is a summary of monthly returns filed by each business giving details of monthly sales, input tax credits and total tax liability.

Most big states reported healthy growth in GST collection with Odisha registering 28% growth, Maharashtra 25%, Haryana 23%, Andhra Pradesh 22%, Karnataka 19% and Gujarat 17% (see map). Bihar was the only big state wih a year-on-year decline in April.

"The impact of the continuing focus on ensuring timely compliance by all GST registrants by restricting the input tax credits of the buyers together with enhanced analytics to detect evasion has also contributed significantly to the all-time high collections," said M S Mani, partner, Deloitte India.

The total April revenue for the Centre was ₹66,582 crore while states get ₹68,755 crore.

Import revenue

Revenues from imports were 30% higher and those from domestic transactions were 17% more as compared to collections from the same sources during the same month last year

Karnataka's GST collection at ₹11,820 cr, up 19% from last yr

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

KARNATAKA'S GST collection for April was Rs 11,820 crore, an increase of 19 per cent from the year-ago collection of Rs 9,955 crore and over 29 per cent from March accruals of Rs 8,750 crore, said Commercial Tax Commissioner C Shikha.

Since commercial activities resumed after restrictions were relaxed, the economy has seen a turnaround and the state has reported substantially higher GST collections. For February it was Rs 9,176 crore.

Karnataka stood second only to Maharashtra in the highest GST collection.

Officers said, "Better collections are because of the improvement in compliance behaviour, which has been a result of various steps taken by the tax administration. Enforcement was strict with errant taxpayers identified based on data analytics and artificial intelligence."

FKCCI GST Committee Chairman C Manohar said, "Business and service sectors are doing well as people are emerging from difficult times of the pandemic. The taxpayers' compliance and administration efforts in curtailing tax evasion through strict enforcement and initiation of e-invoice seem to be the encouraging factors."

Acid attack victim's kin gets ready for sister's wedding in grief

SHILPA P @Bengaluru

"HER sister's wedding is just a week away, on May 7 and 8. We are forced to prepare for it in deep grief without Aasha (name changed), who had done all the preparations and was all excited about it," cried Sundresh, the uncle of acid attack victim Aasha.

"Being a vegetable vendor, her father had done his best to get a good education for his two daughters and a son. Aasha's elder sister is a software engineer, while Aasha too had done her BE and MBA and was working at a finance company. She wrote the SBI banking exam recently," her uncle said.

"The accused, Nagesh, had rented the house of Aasha's grandmother opposite Aasha's house. He was staying with his elder brother and parents. A few years ago, when Aasha was still studying, he had approached her mother and had expressed his interest in marrying Aasha. "But her mother had declined the proposal, saying Aasha was still studying and they wouldn't get her married so early. She had told Nagesh's elder brother, who had advised the accused not to force Aasha when her family was not interested. They later vacated that house and rented out another house nearby. Nagesh had approached Aasha at her office 25 days ago and proposed to her. Aasha told him that she did not know him and was not interested in marrying him," Sundresh said.

"On Wednesday, Aasha's father was going near her office near Sunkadakatte Circle to get a gas cylinder. Aasha too left home early so that she could get dropped by her father," he said. CONTINUED ON: P3

BSF morale low, no cadre review for Group B and C

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Border Security Force (BSF) personnel who guard the nation's frontiers, appear to be losing motivation because of the lack of avenues for growth within their service. Take the periodic cadre review.

Its stated objective is to make projections of requirements of personnel and to rationalise the cadre structure so as to improve efficiency and morale. Yet, cadre review of BSF's Group B and C has not been done since the force came into existence in 1965. Seven years ago, the first proposal for their cadre review was sent to the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) for approval. There has been no forward movement yet.

"A cadre review proposal for personnel below officer rank (Group B & C) was ordered on May 15, 2015 by the Director General of BSF. The proposal was sent to the MHA on Nov 3, 2015," a senior officer said.

While Group B includes inspectors and sub inspectors, Group C has constables and head constables. Group A comprises officers — assistant commandant and above. TNIE spoke to multiple personnel of the BSF to understand the situation.

For Group A, the Delhi High Court in 2016 ordered a cadre review, pointing to the younger age profile of commanders in the Army where an officer becomes a commanding officer with around 16 years of service. It directed the Central Armed Police Forces (CAPFs) to likewise bring down the age profiles of their commanders. The average ageprofile of a BSF commandant, the commanding officer of a unit, is 52 years at present, informed the officer quoted above.

The BSF has a strength of around 2,55,000 — around 2.5 lakh below officer rank and around 5,000 officers.

Ranks and promotions are a very important part of the morale and motivation mechanism for every combatised force. Yet, a candidate joining BSF at the bottom of the pyramid can consider himself lucky if he becomes a head constable after 21 long years of service. For, not all constables of the 2000 batch have picked up head constable ranks.

At present, a constable takes more than 32 years to become an assistant sub inspector and 36 years for promotion as sub inspector. Very few reach the inspector rank. "Reaching the rank on an assistant commandant is a rarity," said sources.

Junior doctors want NEET-PG put off

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

THOUSANDS of junior doctors are urging the Centre to postpone this year's NEET-PG exam, scheduled to be held on May 21, by two months as the counselling process for the 2021 exam is still going on.

In an online poll conducted by the Federation of All India Medical Association (FAIMA), more than 85 per cent of NEET-PG aspirants voted to postpone the exam.

"There needs to be a sufficient gap between the counselling of one session and the subsequent exam," Dr Chinmayee Gowda, in charge of the women's wing of the FAIMA, explained. "But, the NEET-PG counselling of 2021 will get over by May 3, and then, the state counselling will start, which will probably end by late May. We will be busy with the counselling process. How can we prepare for the exam?" she told this newspaper.

Adding to the students' woes, they have to be physically present for the state counselling, which means they must travel to different states. "We're in a dilemma whether to study for the exam or attend the counselling," Dr Benhur Basheer, a NEET-PG aspirant said.

"Postponement of NEET-PG from March to May was done hoping that counselling of 2021 will be over by April. It is unfortunate that the process is still on," FAIMA president Dr Rohan Krishnan said. Junior doctors have threatened to surrender their MBBS degrees if NEET-PG 2022 is not postponed.

Mysuru to get ₹23,000 crore chip fab plant

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AMID intense competition among various states to attract semiconductor fabrication units, the Karnataka government on Sunday signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with Israel-based ISMC Analog Fab Pvt Ltd for setting up such a plant in the state with an investment of Rs 22,900 crore ($3 billion).

The company will implement the project fully over the next seven years and the facility is expected to generate employment opportunities for 1,500 people. The MoU was signed by Additional Chief Secretary, IT/BT Department, Dr EV Ramana Reddy, and ISMC Director Ajay Jalan in the presence of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai.

DURING the time of the British, Kolar Gold Fields (KGF) had everything that a developed town could dream of. Other than the best basic amenities, it had sprawling bungalows, sports clubs, clubhouses, gymkhanas and best educational institutions. Known as "Little England", KGF is just a mere shadow of its original self now.

KGF, which is some 30 km from the district headquarters Kolar, has no proper public bus connectivity. There is a small railway station nearby, but no last-mile connectivity.

Albert, who used to work as a timber man at Bharat Gold Mines Ltd and continues to live at KGF, says they do not have government buses running to the town. "We have to take autorickshaws to the nearest bus stand at Robertsonpet, 8 km away. We spend Rs 60 on autos.

GROUND ZERO KGF PART 2

It would have cost us less if buses were coming to the town." The frequency of trains to Bengaluru is good. "But we cannot depend on trains all the time," he said.

Not just connectivity, water facilities too are poor. Houses here get piped water, but it is hard and not suitable for drinking or cooking. Drinking water is supplied by private tankers, which charge them Rs 10 for three pots. "We have to spend at least Rs 20-30 a day on drinking water. This works out to Rs 600-700 per day, which is a big amount for us," he explained. If they miss the supplies from the tanker, they have to go all the way to Banagiri village, which is 8 km away, for water. The reverse osmosis (RO) plant in the town has not been working for a few months now. P5

The deceased is Sulochana, a housewife, and the injured are her husband, Murali K (32), their children Mokshith (4) and Pawan Kalyan (7), her mother-in-law, Ambika (58), and a relative, Vinutha (22).

The police said that Murali, who is a realtor, had taken his family to Dharmasthala for a temple visit and was returning to his native Anekal. Murali was driving the car and he did not notice the lorry which had broken down. The lorry driver did not switch on the hazard light and had parked on the left side of the highway. Murali failed to notice it and rammed into the lorry. Sulochana was sitting next to the driver's seat and suffered severe injuries and died on the spot while the others escaped with injuries. The injured are undergoing treatment in a private hospital.

The Byadarahalli police have taken statements from the injured and found that Murali had been driving for three days continuously and he did not have proper sleep. So, he was also feeling dizzy and failed to notice the parked lorry.

Victoria Hospital donates skin for acid attack victim

Families of 139 deceased people donate skin of kin to the bank, ever since it began 6 yrs ago; Skin can be harvested within six hrs after death

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

PLASTIC surgeons at St John's Hospital in Bengaluru have sought skin for grafting for the 24-year-old acid attack victim, from the skin bank at Victoria Hospital. It is the first such bank in Karnataka, and the second largest in the country.

While skin donation is not too well known, families of as many as 139 deceased people have donated skin of their kin to the skin bank, ever since it began six years ago. Yet, while the tertiary care burns unit at Victoria Hospital alone gets an average of five to six patients with second and third degree burns per day, the gap between demand and donation is huge, as they use skin from their bank for their own patients, and there are also many requests from other hospitals.

India records over 80 lakh burns cases annually, with around 1.4 lakh deaths every year, and 4 lakh suffering from disabilities. As many as 70 per cent of cases admitted are a result of kitchen or workplace-related accidents, besides suicide and homicide attempts. Yet, there are only 16 skin banks in the country and two in Karnataka, including one at Victoria Hospital and the other at KLES in Belagavi, according to Professor, Head of Unit, department of plastic surgery, Dr Smitha S Segu.

Dr Smitha explained that the skin bank collects skin from eligible deceased donors, processes, preserves and distributes it as per international protocol. Skin can be retrieved from healthy deceased donors aged 18 years onwards, who die of natural causes. It can be harvested from donors within six hours after death, in hospital or at home or the mortuary, by an expert team. It is transferred to the lab/skin bank, where it is processed and stored in freezers. No matching is required, but the donor's blood sample is collected to check for serology, and the skin is cultured to ensure there is no bacterial growth, she said.

Donor skin is used as allograft in partial thickness, second and third degree deep thermal burns, raw areas due to accidents, large wounds due to diabetes and infection, large pressure sores and others, she added. It helps to reduce loss of fluids from the burnt area, pain, rate of infection and thus, cuts down the length of hospital stay, and even reduces mortality. If there is no skin available, experts try methods like skin substitutes which are expensive, Dr Smitha said.

Aasha had picked her sister's wedding outfit

"THEY reached near her office at 8.30 am, and her father had moved a little ahead when he got the call saying someone had poured acid on Aasha. Her father called me immediately, and I rushed to the spot. When I reached there, we could see that her dress and skin were burnt and fumes were coming out of her body. We rushed her to nearby Lakshmi Hospital, from where she was shifted to St John's Hospital," he added.

"Aasha had selected the wedding clothes for her sister. She too had a proposal, but had said she would enjoy her sister's wedding first and then think about her wedding. But now, Aasha is lying at ICU and we are forced to go ahead with her sister's wedding," Sundresh said.

ONLINE REFERRAL MODULE TO START FROM JUNE 1

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

THE State health department is switching to online referral module, under the Ayushman Bharath-Arogya Karnataka scheme requiring complex secondary or tertiary treatment at health care facilities, empanelled private hospitals and public health institute or centre of excellence in the absence of medical capability and capacity in any public health institution. The new system will be in place from 1 June.

To make the system familiar, a month of bi-modal (both online and offline) referral will be allowed for May 2022 which began from Sunday, said State Commissioner for health and family welfare services, D Randeep. NIC Bengaluru has developed this online referral module which has been successfully field tested and is now ready for roll out, he said.

Till now, the manual referrals were issued in a prescribed preprinted format that ate into the time of the doctors and Suvarna Arogya Medical Coordinators (SAMCO), besides inconveniencing patients. Hence, the government order on 15 November 2018 envisaged the development of a seamless, online referral system. The referral from a single online source is intended to prevent fraud, Randeep added. From 1 June, the doctors/specialists and nodal officers have to mandatorily access the website using their user credentials and start referring the patients to other facilities. But in May 2022, preferably PHIs should start using the online referral module, but to ensure there is no inconvenience to patients, the manual referral will also be permitted, he said. The nodal officers of the PHIs have already received training from SAST (Suvarna Arogya Suraksha Trust). However, if more training is required, PHIs can approach the project manager, IT in SAST or the respective district coordinators in SAST to organize training and get finish it before May 15.

Big change likely in Bommai govt

Amit Shah's visit to B'luru could clear decks for revamp, Santhosh hints at overhaul

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

WITH Union Home Minister Amit Shah slated to arrive in Bengaluru late Monday evening, and BJP National General Secretary B L Santhosh hinting at big changes to prepare the BJP for the 2023 assembly polls in Karnataka, the party seems to be in a churn.

Though Shah's visit is touted to be a regular one, as he is attending the valedictory of the Khelo India event on Tuesday, besides taking part in Basava Jayanti celebrations, party sources said the purpose is to bringing about a change in the Basavaraj Bommai government. The long-pending reshuffle of his cabinet and party's position in the state is likely to take centre-stage. Bommai is also hosting a lunch for Shah at his official residence on Tuesday.

"This time, Shah's visit will be decisive as elections are less than a year away and many fresh faces may be given leadership roles, with the government facing issues related to corruption," a leader said. Sources said eight to ten new faces may be inducted into the cabinet.

"A change in leadership is the strength of the BJP, we have been successful in that experiment by introducing new faces and winning corporation polls in New Delhi and Gujarat. We kept the incumbent MLAs and their family members at bay, and introduced new faces," Santhosh had remarked in Mysuru, creating ripples in BJP circles.

BJP National General Secretary C T Ravi also spoke on the same lines. "Wherever we are weak, change is inevitable and the party will not promote weak leaders. We have our own Karnataka model. There will be no Gujarat or Punjab model," he stated. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai agreed with Santhosh's statement, saying, "What he has said is correct and true." Later in the evening, Bommai called on Santhosh along with cabinet colleagues Govind Karjol, B Sriramulu, B C Nagesh and former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi at the party office, sparking off speculation.

According to sources, the BJP's internal survey indicates that it would be tough for the party to retain power in the state, unless there is a change in both the government and party. Meanwhile, former chief minister B S Yediyurappa's son and BJP State Vice-President B Y Vijayendra continued to lobby for a ministerial berth, and had been to New Delhi a couple of days ago to meet some national leaders, sources confirmed.

BJP may sack Bommai as he is from non-RSS background: Siddu

MYSURU: Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah has accused the BJP high command of wanting to replace Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai as he is from non-RSS background. This comes a day after BJP national general secretary BL Santhosh said that a change in the leadership will strengthen the party. "Bommai roots are not in the RSS... it is in the Janata Parivar," the Badami MLA added. He also lashed out at Santhosh for accusing the Congress of encouraging dynastic politics. "Who are Yediyurappa and Vijyayendra? Aren't they father and son? The BJP has no moral right to talk about dynastic politics," the former CM thundered. On the prevailing coal situation in Karnataka, Siddaramaiah accused the State Government of creating an artificial scarcity of coal because of its mismanagement and failure in distribution owing to lack of coordination between the minister concerned and officials. He also accused the State Government of failing to tap solar, wind and thermal power to meet the demand. He also charged that the government was dead in Karnataka as both the CM and Home Minister were weak.

BJP keeps Jarkiholi in the shadows

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

IT is no secret that BJP leader Ramesh Jarkiholi remains strong in Belagavi district, and also proved it by getting brother Lakhan to win as an Independent MLC, in spite of the sleaze tape sting. It is also no secret that Jarkiholi has been trying hard to get re-inducted into the cabinet, despite being stung by allegations of impropriety by a young woman. But the going hasn't been easy for him, though he has met Union Home Minister Amit Shah and other party leaders.

While Jarkiholi's supporters have insisted that since police investigation has established it as a clear case of "consensual sex" and there was "no rape", as alleged, they also point out that the party leadership is not enthusiastic about "restoring his honour".

Some party insiders said it may be very difficult for Jarkiholi to return as minister in the remaining 10 months of the government's tenure, and that he may even find it difficult to get a party ticket for the 2023 polls.

Meanwhile, sources said in the long run, BJP is seeking alternatives to the Jarkiholis and Kattis, and is keen to groom youngsters from Belagavi. While some of his loyalists have suggested that he look elsewhere, Ramesh Jarikiholi may find it difficult to jump back to the Congress since he shares an extremely poor relationship with KPCC President DK Shivakumar. He had even referred to Shivakumar as the 'mahanayaka' behind the Eshwarappa episode.

How his exclusion from the BJP will impact Belagavi -- where MLA and archrival Lakshmi Hebbalkar managed to get her brother Channaraj elected as MLC -- is an open question. As is his relationship with former Drputy Chief Minister Laxman Savadi. What is clear is that ST Nayaka community leader Ramesh Jarkiholi is no pushover, and commands influence over more than 80 constituencies -- from Yadgir in the North to Kolar in the South. The Jarkiholi family, too, wields power across Belagavi district.

AAP: FACING MANY CHALLENGES, BUT A PARTY TO WATCH OUT FOR

THE BJP, Congress and JDS have hit the ground running, preparing for a pitched battle early next year. But in the background, Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) has caught the attention of a section of voters in Karnataka, especially after its stupendous show in Punjab. Being on the fringes of Karnataka politics for several years — even after it came to power in the national capital — AAP is now slowly moving towards centre-stage and has become a part of the state's political lexicon.

Arvind Kejriwal's team seems to be making all-out efforts to gain a foothold in Karnataka, although it may be difficult for the party to stir political equations ahead of the 2023 polls. For now, it resembles the BJP of the 1980s, when a section of society backed it at a time when it lacked the critical mass needed to win elections... until LK Advani's 1990 Rath Yatra changed all that.

For AAP's supporters, a terrific show in Punjab provided confidence to take on big parties outside Delhi, and the entry of some prominent personalities — including retired officers and farmer organisations' leaders — has boosted its morale.

But the task ahead is Herculean. As a new entrant, the party is trying to occupy Congress' space to take on the BJP. That sounds implausible at the moment, as unlike in many states, the Congress is still a formidable force with a strong support base in Karnataka, although it is finding it difficult to win elections. Even BJP's growth in the state was at the expense of non-Congress regional parties.

COMPLEX POLITICAL EQUATIONS

In Karnataka, the first challenge for AAP is to find candidates capable of putting up a good fight, leaders with pan-Karnataka appeal and a strong cadre network to reach out to voters. Kejriwal's Delhi model of governance is AAP's USP. Delivering that message to the last man in Karnataka in a compelling manner is the key to making an impact in state politics. Getting complex caste equations right may come at a later stage for AAP, because each region in Karnataka is unique with its own political dynamics and issues. Politics in Coastal Karnataka is remarkably different from that in Kalyan Karnataka. Such is the complex equation that even now the BJP is struggling to make a big impact in Old Mysuru region, especially in the assembly polls. The political landscape in these districts continues to be dominated by Congress and the JDS.

Looking at it practically, AAP is more serious about getting a foothold in the state to emerge as a strong force in the longer run. With corruption becoming a major issue, bigger parties will be forced to acknowledge AAP's Karnataka presence when they prepare their strategies for the assembly polls. AAP is already appealing to young urban voters, especially those disenchanted with the BJP and Congress. The ruling party will be wary of its impact, at least in some assembly segments in Bengaluru.

AAP's presence is also bound to worry Congress about a possible split in anti-BJP votes. And farmers' organisations backing the AAP are likely to hit JDS to some extent. But in multi-cornered fights, a lot depends on candidates, their equations with voters and the local issues. Despite having prominent people with an impressive track record in their professions, AAP had failed to make its presence felt in earlier elections in Karnataka.

But after consistently working on the ground for the past few years, AAP may now be in a slightly better position to field some promising candidates. For the 2023 polls, they have already started looking for winnable, clean-imaged candidates.

As the political debate continues to hover around development, communal issues and corruption, AAP's poll plank may gain traction. But whether it converts into votes for the party, is to be seen.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

Elections, a time of reckoning

Elections bring people together and vote-seekers to your doorstep. A year ago, BJP MLA from Ballari G Somashekara Reddy had 'threatened' a particular community. A few months later, Reddy's son was defeated in the elections by a big margin. Now Reddy doesn't seem to be in the mood for any misadventures. He promptly attended iftar parties in his constituency this year and spoke about peace and unity among different religions. So much so that even his supporters were left open-mouthed.

Different strokes for different netas

This may sound unbelievable to the cynical public: A politician claiming that he is dependent on government pension after retirement. KPCC spokesperson and former MLA Belur Gopalakrishna made this comment in Sagar recently, while accusing Sagar BJP MLA Haratalu Halappa of favouring real estate developers instead of homeless people. Reacting to Halappa's sarcastic comments that he (Belur) is making ends meet, thanks to his MLA pension, the Congressman said he is indeed dependent on pension and is happy with it. "I'm not corrupt like Halappa," he declared. And we had concluded that the honest politician was a species of the past...

Bare of head but loud of demand

Over the past 10 days, Old Mysuru region has been the arena for rallies and conventions as part of Janata Jaladhare. As many as 500-1,000 JDS workers in each taluk in these districts are hitting the streets on bikes, as part of the party campaign. It's objective: To announce that the JDS would implement all pending major water and irrigation projects. The irony is that while JDS workers are demanding implementation of these projects, they have failed to adhere to the basic 'helmet rule', and are taking part in rallies bare-headed. Traffic police deployed to ensure smooth traffic movement, too turn a blind eye. And the public can only raise its collective eyebrows.

PSI SCAM

How accused planned, executed the scam

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI
@ Kalaburagi

Manjunath Melakundi, Rudragowda

CID sleuths, investigating the PSI CET scam at Jnana Ganga English Medium School in Kalaburagi, are commencing the interrogation of all the three main accused -- Divya Hagargi, Rudragowda Patil and Manjunath Melakundi.

CID sources said that on April 9, they filed an FIR at the Chowk Police Station against the school, where at PSI CET malpractice in manipulation of answer sheets took place. Since then, they have arrested 24 accused, including eight candidates, they added.

From selecting the exam centre to manipulation of answer sheets and answering questions using Bluetooth, the malpractice was well planned. The main accused Melakundi and Rudragowda Patil used to find candidates who were ready to pay money to pass the test and made deals with them. They would then contact the authorities of exam centres to help their candidates in the test. They later used their influence and money to make authorities allot centres of their choice to the candidates.

Manjunath used to make deals with the authorities at exam centres to manipulate the OMR sheets of candidates. Room supervisors at exam centres used to fill OMR sheets after the exam hours.

Rudragowda used Bluetooth to help the candidates. CID sources said he had a team of experts for electronic devices and also the exam subjects. He used to provide electronic devices to the candidates and teach them how to use these devices during the exam.

The sources said both Melakundi and Patil chose the exam centre at Jnana Ganga English Medium School and paid Divya Hagaragi through her agents.

"We have unearthed how the scam took place and the modus operandi of the accused. The exam was conducted in 11 rooms at the centre and around 400 candidates appeared. Of the 400 candidates, 11 were selected for PSI posts. Of them, we have found eight candidates to have indulged in malpractice and manipulation of OMR sheets," they said.

The PSI CET was conducted in 93 exam centres in the state, including 11 in Kalaburagi.

One more accused surrenders

KALABURAGI: One of the main accused in the scam, Manjunath Melakundi, who was absconding since April 10, surrendered before the Criminal Inestigation Department sleuths on May 1. Melakundi, who is an Assistant Engineer in the Minor Irrigation Department in Kalaburagi district, got down from an autorickshaw near the CID office at about 11.30 am on Sunday and went straight into the CID office and surrendered. Before surrendering to the CID, he told the media that he is innocent and he was undergoing treatment in Mangaluru.

Probe irregularities in physical test too: Priyank

KALABURAGI: KPCC spokesperson and former minister Priyank Kharge said though irregularities have taken place in the physical tests for the selection of police sub-inspectors, the State Government is conducting a written re-exam. "The government has issued a circular on conducting written tests only. But many candidates have done illegalities in physical tests in many centres, including Belagavi. Complaints have been registered at Belagavi urban and rural police stations in this regard," Kharge told the media.

CID sleuths grill accused; hunt on to trace others

BENGALURU: The nine candidates accused in the scam, arrested by the CID, have been taken into custody for 10 days. The sleuths had picked up the accused from the High Grounds police station limits on Saturday after filing an FIR. The police said that based on a tipoff, three more accused were detained on Sunday and the arrested had written exams at five centres in Bengaluru. Meanwhile, the accused have also revealed the names of 10 other suspects. Two special teams are on the hunt for them and some of them have escaped to other states.

Hunger strike seeking 2A tag by Panchamasalis enters Day 11

MAHESH M GOUDAR @Bagalkot

EVEN as Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has assured of fulfilling the demands of the Panchamasali community, Kudalasangama Panchamasali Peeta seer Basava Jaya Mruthyunjaya Swami is on an indefinite hunger strike demanding 2A tag for the community.

The agitation spearheaded by the seer has entered the eleventh day at Kudalasangama. The seer had launched the protest after the government failed to respond to the community's demands by April 14, which was set as the deadline by the seer. BJP leader and Vijayapura City MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal had launched this indefinite protest on April 21.

The seer said, "The State Government has failed to respond to our demands. We had set many deadlines in the past. This protest will continue until our demands are fulfilled. There is no question of withdrawing the protest this time."

In a recent job fair held at Harihara Panchamasali Peeta, CM Bommai had said that the government would take suitable steps on awarding 2A reservation and OBC status to Panchamasalis only after it gets a detailed report from the Karnataka State Commission for Backward Classes.

Kudalasangama Panchamasali Peeta seer Basava Jaya Mruthyunjaya Swami addressing a gathering at Kudalasangama recently

When asked whether any top leaders from the community are delaying the process, the seer lashed out at a senior minister without naming him. "There is a minister from our community who is delaying the process. He feels insecure because if the government awards the reservation, the credit would go to minister CC Patil, MLA Yatnal and former MLA Vijayananda Kashappanavar, who are all supporting the movement," the seer added.

15 MoUs signed in meet

KARNATAKA IT/BT Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan said semiconductor production in Karnataka will provide further impetus to the state's economy. "The uptick in investments in India in semiconductors coincides with the global demand for semiconductors amid a shortage expected to run through 2025. We have suggested an Electronics and Systems Design cluster in Mysuru as the investment destination for ISMC," said Ramana Reddy. ISMC has requested 150 acres of land in Mysuru's Kochanahalli Industrial Area. As many as 15 MoUs were signed with various companies and startups across three days at the SemiCon India conference in Bengaluru. The meet, according to Uniojn MoS for Electronics and Information Technology, Rajeev Chandrasekhar, is to give a message to all stakeholders that important components of manufacturing, design, innovation and talent are able to link up to real life applications and products.

Airfares for international destinations from Kerala, especially to the Gulf and European countries, have seen a significant rise in the past few weeks. According to tour operators, fares have increased by at least 30-40% since the Covid outbreak. The hike is the repercussion of increase in the price of the aviation turbine fuel and high travel demand

Oath row: TN govt removes Madurai Med College dean

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Madurai/Tirupathur

THE State government on Sunday removed Dr. A Rathinavel as the Dean of Madurai Medical College and placed him on waitlist after first-year MBBS students were administered 'Maharishi Charak Shapath' instead of Hippocratic Oath at an induction ceremony held in the college on Saturday.

After the oath was administered to students at the event in which Finance Minister PTR Palanivel Thiaga Rajan and Minister for Commercial Taxes and Registration P Moorthy took part, the FM asked the dean whether the oath has been changed.

In a press statement issued on Saturday, Health Minister Ma. Subramanian said traditionally doctors and students in Tamil Nadu were administered only Hippocratic Oath, but Dean Dr Rathinavel violated the procedure and administered the 'shapath'. The Dean has been placed on waitlist and Director of Medical Education (DME) Dr. Narayana Babu will conduct an inquiry, the statement said. Speaking to TNIE, Dr. Rathinavel said students general secretary Jothi and Vice-Principal V Dhanalakshmi were responsible.

All units in TS Textile Park shut, 1k lose jobs

Park set up to empower weavers pushed them out on the streets overnight

NAVEEN KUMAR TALLAM
@ Rajanna-Sircilla

THE worst fears of weavers employed at various units of Sircilla Textile Park have come true on Sunday. As hinted earlier, the owners of these units, faced with heavy financial crunch, shut shop. Ironically, the decision to close down their units came on a day when the workers should be celebrating the International Workers' Day, leaving around 1,500 employees to their fate.

Of the 117-odd units, around 50 units were closed earlier and the remaining were shut on Sunday. With closure of all the units, which at least for now looks indefinite, the Sircilla Textile Park wore a deserted look with the desolate employees unsure where their next meal would come from.

Speaking to Express, Textile Park Units Owners Association president Annal Das Anil said: "We are not sure for how many days the units will be shut. There is no clarity at this juncture. Until and unless the government lends a helping hand, the closure of our units will be indefinite."

Comparing the situation in Telangana with that of other States, he said: "In Maharastra, the textile manufacturers are supplied electricity at ₹3.50 per unit. In Tamil Nadu, electricity is supplied free of cost for up to 500 units. However, the textile manufacturers in Telangana have to pay ₹ 7.50 per unit."

In addition to spiralling costs of raw material, the manufacturers are also being burdened by the ever increasing prices of yarn and transport charges, he added.

Manchala Rajamesham, an employee of Laxmi Textiles, lamented that there is no other source of income for the weavers. CITU leader Kodam Ramana demanded that the government to take serious view of the situation. The Textile Park was set up with an investment of ₹7.73 core in 2002-03 by the then united Andhra Pradesh government to prevent starvation deaths and empower the weavers.

PROVIDING JUSTICE FREE OF COST TO NEEDY, MY PRIORITY: UPA LOKAYUKTA

YATHIRAJU @Bengaluru

ASSUMING the office of Upa Lokayukta-II recently with an aim to bring innovative ideas to develop the Lokayukta institution further, Justice KN Phaneendra, former judge of Karnataka High Court, said, "We should work from the heart and mind.

There is a lot of difference between the judiciary and any other department, as the Lokayukta institution has earned more respect than any other department.

There is a presumption among people that all those working in Lokayukta are honest, and we have to work accordingly. Within us, more than law, one should have a human approach and a profound common sense. My doors are always open to the people." Excerpts:

Why have you chosen the Upa-Lokayukta post when there are various opportunities after retiring as a judge of the High Court?

■ Delivering judgements sitting in courts will give one an advantage and the other a disadvantage. It is bound to happen as judgement means one wins and another loses. In courts, it is difficult to do much work for society, as administration and justice have to be in accordance with law, when compared to Lokayukta. This institution enables us to reach the people, facilitate fora for them to air their grievances, understand their problems and provide relief.

What new ideas do you have to take the Lokayukta to the doorsteps of the needy people?

■ People in remote areas are not aware of this institution. As a first step, I have already requested Justice B Veerappa, Judge of High Court and Executive Chairman of Karnataka State Legal Services Authority, to work in tandem with us to reach out to people in remote areas and instill confidence in them about the institution. I am going to hold discussions with Justice Veerappa in person soon.

What is your priority in addressing grievances?

■ Providing speedy justice free of cost to those who are in need of help as they are unable to reach the police or afford a lawyer or courts. This is my first and foremost priority. Second, a little care has to be taken to deal with people who try to use this institution to target honest officers by filing complaints against them to get achieve their goal and get their work done illegally. In such cases, holding inquiries and patient hearings is the best way to ascertain the truth with the help of technical or police wing.

What innovative ideas do you have to make the Lokayukta more people-friendly?

■ I have already told our staff that the work in this institution is not for salary, but for society. I am planning to have a discussion with our judicial officers to get their views and grievances, if any. We have to encourage and work with them to collectively achieve the goal.

This apart, there are a good number of IAS officers both in service and retired. I will interact with them to address the grievances and the maladministration at district levels. I have spoken to the Registrar on creating awareness about the institution through radio, television and newspapers.

Once or twice a month, I will visit districts and stay there for two-three days to address grievances with the involvement of the DC, SP and other unit heads. If possible, address the grievances on the same day or the next day.

What is your opinion about the order passed by the Home Department to the DG&IGP to take back all SPs and DySPs working with Lokayukta?

■ The matter has not reached us. I came to know about it through the media. Even after the constitution of ACB to deal with cases under corruption, the Lokayukta is still empowered to address grievances of people and deal with maladministration. If any complaints are received, we refer them to Lokayukta police wings in districts concerned and get themw investigated.

It is an administrative matter within the domain of Lokayukta which is vacant now. I think nothing will happen till the appointment is made.

Is there any plan for a quick complaints/grievances redressal system online?

■ The formats of complaints were uploaded in Lokayukta website (https://lokayukta.kar.nic.in/) and physically received, as mandated under law. The complaints can be filed in districts also which will be transferred to us.

I am yet to examine our portal and rules to make further improvements. Automatic registration of complaints online can be done and there should not be any human intervention.

Farmers angry as Halaga-Macche road work restarts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

IN spite of Chief Minister's assurance to stop the Halaga-Macche bypass road project work until discussions with farmers are held, the National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) has once again started it at Macche village in Belagavi on Saturday. Irked farmers have warned to stage protests if the work is not stopped immediately as according to them it is contempt of the court.

It may be recalled here that during the Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's visit to Belagavi, he had assured farmers to sort out the Halaga – Macche bypass road project issue through proper discussions with them and also through compensation. CM Bommai responded to a group of farmers headed by leaders - Prakash Naik and Raju Marve in connection to the Halaga – Macche bypass road project. The farmers complained to him that the police were allegedly harassing them. Bommai had also assured that he will instruct the police officials to stop such action and also the bypass road works will be stopped.

However, the bypass road work has commenced again with police security. Leader Raju Marve said that the authorities concerned are neglecting the assurance of the CM, which is surprising.

According to Advocate Ravikumar Gokakar, who is representing the farmers in the High Court, the authorities have failed to produce any records or documents in court to show prior notifications, the zero point of NH (National Highway) 4A was shifted from a fish market to Halaga on NH4. Hence the acquisition is lapsed due to mandate enjoined by section 3D of the NH Act 1956. He said that despite giving several opportunities, they were not able to justify the acquisition in question for the construction of NH4A. Hence, the interim order to maintain the status quo was granted, the defendants tried to vacate it, but the HC declined, he said.

Thousands of houses in dilapidated condition near defunct gold mines

THE town has thousands of small houses near the defunct gold mines that were built for labourers. Several families continue to stay in these poorly built houses that have only sheet roofs and none have concrete ceilings. Residents suffer during monsoon as well as summer. Manjula, whose late husband Augustine used to work at BGML, said they stay here as they have nowhere else to go. "When it rains, it pours inside. During summer, it is extremely hot because of the sheet roof," she said. When the gold mines were running, KGF used to get power from the Shivasamudra station, which when built in 1902 was the first power generation unit in Asia. But today, residents face frequent power cuts.

THE UNEASE OF DOING BUSINESS IN INDIA AMID RAID RAJ

All the talk about Ease of Doing Business has come to be seen as a farce as the government's raid raj is rearing its head again. As government agencies—Income Tax Department, Enforcement Directorate and now Competition Commission of India (CCI)—are showing unusual alacrity in swooping down on premises of firms and their promoters, the anger in the business community is becoming more palpable. The business community is not coming out openly to air their dissatisfaction, barring a few brave ones like the late Rahul Bajaj, against the institutional overreach. But they do talk in hush-hush tones.

The office premises of a large steel company and an auto manufacturer were recently raided by the ED and I-T Department. Premises of companies that are major sellers on large e-commerce platforms like Amazon and Flipkart were raided by the CCI, which usually does not do so unless in cases of cartelisation. The CCI, which has long maintained it would not kill innovation and digital economy for perceived fear of market dominance, seems to have gone overboard in the recent past in a couple of instances—the latest being raids on e-commerce sellers.

An aggressive income tax regime has always been seen as a nemesis to businesses. A hostile and complex GST regime is not helping the cause either. Not long ago, GST officers were accused of using violent means against non-compliant taxpayers, so much so that the Telangana and Gujarat High Courts had to say that no rules allow them to use such coercive measures. Some of these businesses that have been targeted are said to have supported political parties other than the one in power at the Centre. Some of the actions by government agencies against Chinese companies come across more as a retaliation against what is happening in the country's northern borders. None of this looks good for the country's business-friendly image.

The government that promised ease of doing business and non-adversarial tax policies for companies operating in the country seems to be going back on its word. It looks like revenue concerns and the need to keep some of its core supporters happy have got the better of the government's priorities.

TOUGH REALITY FOR SAINA, LACK OF DEPTH WORRYING

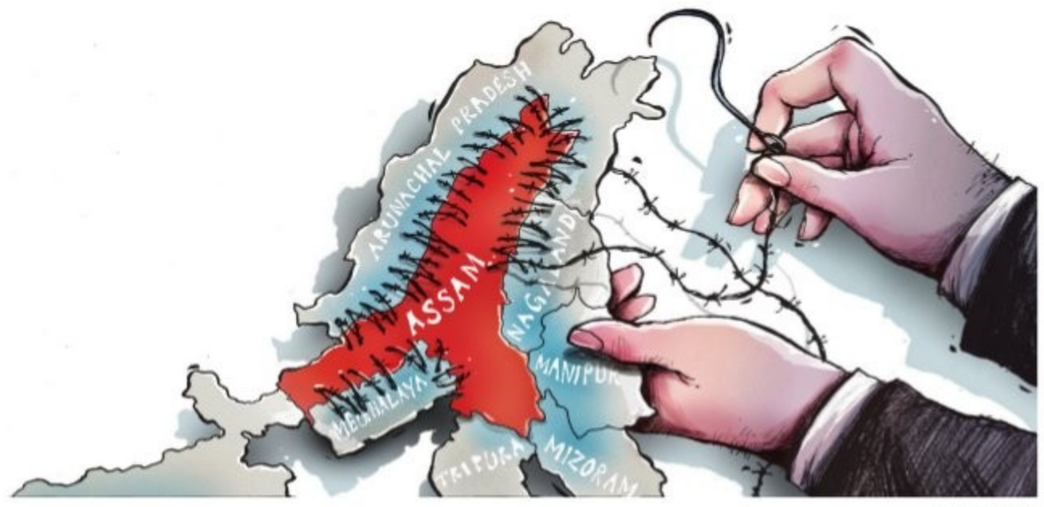
Saina Nehwal cried foul when the Commonwealth and Asian Games trials were announced. She criticised the timing and selection policy and did not participate in it. It's hard on the London Olympics bronze medallist but the next generation athletes, too, need to get a look in. The Commonwealth Games is not the biggest badminton stage either.

Saina is the first shuttler from India to win an Olympic medal and is one of our greatest athletes. Four years ago, she showed extraordinary strength, both physical and mental, to win the Commonwealth Games gold, beating P V Sindhu in her prime. But of late, there is little performance to show. Since her last title in 2019, the two-time medal winner at the World Championships has had a sharp dip in her output. Sample this: In 2019, she participated in 13 BWF events, making seven first-round exits; 2020: five events, three first-round losses; 2021: seven events, four first-round exits. Her recurring injuries and Covid-19 are some of the factors that could have dented her play but those numbers are telling. But what is worrying is that the youngsters, who are expected to fill in her big shoes in the near future, still seem to be a bit undercooked. At 32, Saina, who's currently World No. 23, is still the second-best ranked female player from the country after Sindhu. This reflects poorly on the next-generation players and the efforts of various badminton programmes.

Even though the youngsters are a work-in-progress, a tough match in events like the CWG or Asiad could help them elevate their game to the next level. Saina faced a potential star in Malvika Bansod earlier this year and the latter proved to be too strong for the veteran, who was yet to attain 100% fitness. Fitness (or lack of it) is something that has hampered Saina's game over the years. Healing and rehabilitation at her age take longer. And the sport itself is gruelling as the players are always on the go, spending hours in different time zones in a short period. Maybe Saina has a point in saying she should have got a look in and selection trials could have waited, but the Badminton Association of India had already announced it and that was the only window available before the CWG and Asian Games. Perhaps, it's time to look ahead.

Modern cartographic exercises are not always congruent with the notions of territory of indigenous communities living in these areas

ENDEMIC BOUNDARY DISPUTES IN THE NORTHEAST



SOUMYADIP SINHA

PRADIP PHANJOUBAM

Editor of Imphal Review of Arts and Politics

Why are boundary disputes among Northeast states so endemic? In August 2021, the entire country was shocked by an explosively violent boundary clash between Assam and Mizoram that left five policemen from the former dead and scores more, including civilians, injured. For the next fortnight, rhetoric flew around even at the chief ministerial level—making it seem like two countries at war. Although not as cataclysmic, several flash points in boundary frictions have been witnessed in the region between different states.

Why does Assam have the highest number of these disputes with its neighbouring states? The answer is the manner states in the region were formed. With the exception of Tripura and Manipur, which were separate princely states during the British days, as well as Sikkim which was a British protectorate, the rest of today's Northeast states were once part of the then British province of Assam and remained so long after Independence.

Nagaland, where a strong violent struggle for sovereignty broke out not long after Independence, was the first to be separated from Assam to become a state in 1963 after the merger of the then Naga Hills district of Assam with the Tuensang and Mon subdivisions of the then North East Frontier Agency (NEFA)—today's Arunachal Pradesh—as per the recommendation of the Naga People's Convention, 1957, in a grand effort to resolve the Naga insurrection.

The remaining three Northeast states, Meghalaya, Mizoram and Arunachal Pradesh, came to be separated from Assam in 1972, and before this they were autonomous regions within Assam—two of them, Meghalaya and Mizoram, under the Sixth Schedule of the Constitution.

But the modern cartographic exercises and boundary-identifying standards employed to demarcate these new states, such as mountain watersheds and baselines, rivers, ravines, etc., were not always congruent with the notions of territory of indigenous communities living in the areas where these boundaries came up. For instance, there is nothing that determines that communities living in the mountains cannot see the valley below as also their domain, and vice versa. Indeed, the incongruence is between the rather amorphous and elastic traditional indigenous ideas of territory and belonging, and the modern notion of a territorial boundary.

Lord George Nathaniel Curzon in a way foresaw the current problem in his 1907 Romanes Lecture titled 'Frontiers' delivered two years after his retirement as Viceroy of India, saying modern boundaries as Europeans knew it were unknown in the Asiatic world before colonialism arrived.

Very broadly, a traditional non-European nation is marked by a closely administered centre and in concentric circles, a progressive loosening of the nation's administrative grip occurs till it comes to the frontiers where the administration virtually disappears and becomes the frontiers of another nation. In the European nation-state model, the centre and the borders are administered with equal intensity, and often the borders are guarded and administered more closely than even the centre. No ambiguity is allowed to remain over lands belonging to different nation-states.

It is true that even when modern boundaries were still alien to the Northeast indigenous world, conflicts over territory were not entirely unknown. But these conflicts were not as acute, for the understanding of territory was more notional than concrete. A community may come to see a certain strip of forest, hillside or lake as its domain, but since there are no hard boundaries to define where the forest or hillside ended, overlaps of notional territorial domains with other indigenous communities were tolerated much more. Moreover, in much of the indigenous world still untouched by modern commerce, territory was more about belonging than possession; therefore, the absence of contradiction when the same strips of land were part of the heritage of many different tribes.

> A traditional non-European nation is marked by a closely administered centre and in concentric circles, a progressive loosening of the nation's administrative grip. In the European nation-state model, the centre and the borders are administered with equal intensity, and often the borders are guarded and administered more closely

However, when this notion of 'belonging' and attachment to land comes to transform to 'possession' in the modern sense, trouble can be foretold. The difference is, while many can have a sense of belonging and love for any particular piece of land, when this attachment comes to be interpreted in terms of 'possession', only one can have it; therefore the frictions. British economist E F Schumacher anticipated such troubles beautifully in his 1973 classic 'Small is Beautiful', where he saw symptoms of a destructive pathology in terms like 'exploit' in defining human relations with earth's mineral deposits.

Another arena: A contest for ownership of a beautiful but uninhabited high altitude valley, Dzuko, right on the border of Nagaland and Manipur as well for an adjacent strip of forest, referred to as Kezoltsa or Koziirii or Kazing or Dzukou by the different tribes living in its vicinity—Southern Angamis, Mao, Maram and Zeliangrong—is a case in point. The contest is not so much between the two states, though there is a modern boundary drawn using the cartographic standard of river as border. So officially, a rivulet that runs across the valley is considered the boundary. This leaves the valley split between the two states. Communities in the valley's vicinity however see things differently, and periodic frictions result.

It is now time for the indigenous world to redefine their notion of territory. We have to take as much of the modern understanding of a boundary as it suits administrative efficiency, but also retain those non-conflicting attributes from the traditional notion of land-people relationship to ensure these boundary conflicts are put to rest.

True natural heritages should belong to the entire world. Dzuko should be allowed to be one such too. It cannot be good for the valley or for anybody if it were to be exclusively owned by any one party. The best way forward would be for the valley to be left alone so it can, in its isolation, remain beautiful forever. The communities lucky to be born on its laps can then be custodians, not owners of it. They can all reap the harvest of the popularity of the place together by being its joint keepers, without thinking of exploiting and hollowing it out for short-term benefits.

GEARING UP FOR RATE HIKES & SPILLOVER EFFECTS

KARAN BHASIN

New York-based economist

The year 2022 makes one recall the 2008 crisis when policymakers across the world got together with their staff to discuss responses to a major financial challenge. These discussions and policy choices were geared towards providing emergency support to their respective economies in every possible manner.

Fast forward a few years and we have a situation where the Eurozone was again in crisis and with the US hiking interest rates, we saw a weakening of currency across major emerging markets. India was also among the fragile five economies. The situation of India is much different in 2022 than in 2013—primarily because of stronger growth momentum, higher reserves and steady capital inflows. It is likely that capital flows might not be as robust when the Fed's rate hike begins, and with a high oil price there will be some pressure on the current account, but the large chest of reserves with the RBI should help serve as a credible deterrent against any speculative misadventure against the rupee. A more managed depreciation is likely and will also not be much fought by the RBI—but it may have inflationary implications; so the Monetary Policy Committee may consider it later.

It is but natural that the policy choices now are just as complex as they were during the start of the pandemic. To my mind, it has been a continuum of temporary shocks—some exogenous and others endogenous—that have kept policymakers occupied for a major part of the last few years. The latest shock will come in the form of spillover effects due to unilateral monetary policy decisions, which of course are guided by the domestic inflation-growth considerations of individual central banks. This shock need not be one that affects growth but can also have an impact on inflation through exchange rate channels.

But it is almost certain that central banks are planning to hike interest rates in response to the growing inflationary impulses. The argument is that a higher interest rate will help cool off the economy and therefore reduce inflation. In a highly simplified sense, the idea is to suppress demand by higher interest rates so that it meets the available supply of goods and services. But this assessment ignores the reality of supply and the fact that it is in general lower than pre-pandemic levels in many parts of the world. Take China: it continues to have a lockdown in some provinces and thus, there is yet another disruption in supply chains. Or take the high oil prices due to the Ukraine conflict. It is indeed true that hiking rates will push demand down and therefore help ease inflation.

> It is almost certain that central banks are planning to hike interest rates in response to the growing inflationary impulses. ... India may still do better from a macro and financial stability standpoint, but the real vulnerability is with emerging markets that have substantial dollar borrowings—specifically those that expanded their debt in response to the pandemic

But the real question is whether tightening financial conditions is the optimal policy choice at the moment. Such a policy can have significant distributional consequences, which again play a major role in shaping economic conditions (or preconditions) for the future. India has tried to address supply shocks with monetary policy—and its experience hasn't been impressive. The Indian experience is a case of the limits of monetary policy, but somehow these limits have been often ignored over the last two decades. It is likely that the same thing will occur in 2022 and as a consequence, we will face uncertainty and substantial spillover effects that operate through various transmission mechanisms.

India may still do better from a macro and financial stability standpoint, but the real vulnerability is with emerging markets that have substantial dollar borrowings—specifically those that expanded their debt in response to the pandemic. Needless to say, with China dealing with its own debt problems, another emerging markets crisis can push a lot of funds into India in search of yields. But a general slowdown in emerging markets would drag global growth down, which will affect us through the trade channel.

However, India will very likely continue to hold on to its tag of the fastest growing major economy throughout much of the coming years. In fact, this might be the first decade in independent India's history where its sustained growth rate would be double that of China. Therefore, there must be optimism about India's growth prospects along with realism about the outlook given the expectation of lacklustre global growth.

There is a silver lining: slower global growth would require the rates to be lowered again. And for countries closer to the zero lower bound, asset purchases need to be supported by their respective central banks. Therefore, we would be back to where we started from after a period of constant tinkering and calibration of policy choices. Alas, nobody will know the counterfactual: would we be at a better place if at all we adopted a different policy response?

So many pending cases

The Chief Justice has correctly said that all the three wings of democracy should not cross their limits and further that the judiciary should not be utilised as a platform for settling personal scores through a PIL (CJI: Do not cross the Lakshman Rekha, May 1). It is shocking that there are more than four crore cases, PILs and other petitions pending in several courts. When will justice be delivered to the honest people? The concerns expressed by the Chief Justice should be given immediate attention by governments and the required number of judges along with staff and infrastructure should be created immediately. Further, all rulers must remember the Lakshman Rekha.

Guv has to be impartial

The Governor is supposed to be impartial and has to work with the state government for smooth functioning. This is not happening in Tamil Nadu. Not acting on a legislation passed in the Assembly for a long time is not fair. There is friction between the Governor and the government in many opposition-ruled states. A harmonious relationship will help in the development of the states.

The imprisonment of tennis ace Boris Becker for hiding his assets over a case relating to his 2017 bankruptcy is nothing short of a tragedy. Becker, who won six Grand Slam singles titles and took the tennis world by storm by winning his first Wimbledon title as an unknown 17-year-old boy, has now gained more attention for his misadventures off the tennis court. Interestingly, Becker's rise to fame and fall from grace both had something to do with courts.

Op preparedness tops Army chief's priority

A day after taking charge, Gen Pande talks of enhancing synergy between three services to meet future challenges

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

IN backdrop of the rapidly changing geopolitical scenario and India's lingering standoff with China, new Army chief General Manoj Pande on Sunday listed "very high standards of operational preparedness" as his foremost priority.

A day after taking charge, General Pande acknowledged that there were multiple challenges ahead, but asserted that the Army, along with the Navy and the Air Force, were fully geared to deal with these jointly.

"The geopolitical situation is changing fast due to which we have multiple challenges ahead of us. It is responsibility of the Indian Army soldiers to handle it appropriately," he said while speaking to the media after the ceremonial Guard of Honour.

Outlining his five focus areas, General Pande said, "My utmost and foremost priority will be to ensure very high standards of operational preparedness to face the current contemporary and future challenges across the entire spectrum of conflict." The remarks came amid a stalemate over the deployment along the Line of Actual Control with China in eastern Ladakh.

In terms of capability development and force modernisation, the Army chief said his effort would be to leverage new technologies through process of indigenisation and self-reliance. "I would like to focus on ongoing reforms, restructuring and transformation so as to enhance the Army's operational and functional efficiency."

Air Chief Marshal V R Chaudhari and Admiral R Hari Kumar, both course mates of General Pande in the National Defence Academy, were also present at the Guard of Honour. Asked if having his course mates as Navy and IAF chiefs will help, the Army chief said, "We have trained together. There have been occasions when we have worked together and we are fortunate to have got this chance to work together at the helm of the respective services. It is a good beginning and indication of synergy, cooperation and jointmanship among the three services."

The chief said his aim would be to actively engage with the two other forces in order to enhance inter-services cooperation and synergy and contribute toward national security.

SPOOKY TALES

HUNT FOR SPY CHIEFS BEGIN AS IB, RAW HEADS TO RETIRE

The one-year extension given to the chiefs of India's two premier spy organisations – Research and Analysis Wing (RAW) and Intelligence Bureau (IB) – is coming to an end on June 30. Following the tradition, the government has started the process of finding their replacement well in advance. Among the frontrunners for the post of IB chief is 1987 batch Bihar cadre IPS officer A S Rajan, who is currently serving as number two in the Intelligence Bureau. Rajan has served as Deputy Director and Joint Director in Gujarat and is rated highly by the present government. This was evident when he was given the prize posting of the London office for the agency. Delhi Police Commissioner Rakesh Asthana, a favourite cop of the current dispensation, is considered a dark horse. His name figures in all discussions on appointment of IB chief, RAW chief and even Delhi L-G. Sources say that though Asthana has never served in IB, he is a contender for the post. There has been a precedent when an officer who had never served in IB was brought in from outside to head the organisation. Asthana, therefore, remains a contender for all the three top posts. Meanwhile, a six-month extension given to CBI Special Director Praveen Sinha on the last day of his service on April 30 "in relaxation of Rule 16(1) of the All India Services" has drawn a lot of attention. The 1988 batch Gujarat cadre IPS officer is said to be under consideration for the post of CBI director. Sinha had earlier served as acting chief of the CBI before the present director, Subodh Jaiswal, was given a two-year tenure last year. Sources say Jaiswal is being considered as a replacement of outgoing RAW chief Samant Goel.

POLITICAL BALL

NITISH-TEJASHWI BONHOMIE HAS BJP WORRIED

Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar skipped the joint conference of chief ministers and state chief justices addressed by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Justice of India N V Ramana at Delhi. This triggered talk of his rift with the BJP. It was said Nitish's absence was a way of showing his annoyance with his alliance partner. The Bihar Chief Minister has had a series of spats with the BJP. It started with the BJP unofficially backing Chirag Paswan's candidates against Nitish Kumar's JD(U) candidates in the last state elections. The BJP strategy paid rich dividends as the JD(U) emerged as the smallest of the three main political parties in the Bihar legislative assembly. That's where the rift between the two parties started. The BJP has been trying to free Bihar from Nitish Kumar's control and assume charge of the state. Nitish, however, is not ready to hang his boots yet. He has of late sent messages to the BJP that if it pushes too hard, the relationship may break. He accepted the Iftar hosted by Tejashwi Yadav, where he was seen laughing and sharing light moments with leaders of the opposition Rashtriya Janata Dal. He later invited Tejashwi to his own Iftar party. And then came the decision to miss the important Delhi conference. The message from Nitish is clear: that he remains captain of the alliance and any attempt to push him out may force him to explore other options.

IRON FRAME

GAUBA LEADS RAISE FOR DELHI L-G; BHALLA FOR CAB SECY

Cabinet Secretary Rajiv Gauba's one-year extension given last year is coming to an end in August. Sources say his next stop may be the Raj Niwas in Delhi's Civil Lines, as he may be appointed the Lieutenant Governor of Delhi. Other officers being considered for the prestigious and powerful post are Home Secretary Ajay Bhalla, Delhi Police Commissioner Rakesh Asthana and former Chief Election Commissioner Sunil Arora. The five-year term of present L-G Anil Baijal has ended and the government is in the process of selecting his successor. Sources said besides being a contender for the post of Delhi L-G, Bhalla is also being considered for the post of Cabinet Secretary. According to sources, he is the government's top choice as the replacement for Gauba. Finance secretary T V Somanathan, a 1985 batch IAS officer from Tamil Nadu cadre, is another strong contender for the post of Cabinet Secretary. Sources said it's a toss-up between Bhalla and Somanathan for the post of Cabinet Secretary. Another extension for Gauba has been ruled out.

'Key conspirator' among six more held for Patiala clashes

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

AMID an uneasy calm in Patiala two days after clashes between two groups, political bickering continued over the state government's handling of the situation, even as one of the main conspirators, Barjinder Singh Parwana, and five others were arrested on Sunday.

Parwana, head of the Sikh group Damdami Taksal at Rajpura, was arrested from Mohali and remanded him in four-day police custody by a local court. Nine people have been arrested so far in connection with the Friday violence, when the two groups had clashed over an anti-Khalistan march, hurling stones at each other and brandishing swords.

Mukhwinder Singh Chinna, Inspector General of Police (Patiala Range), said Parwana, 38, was a self-styled Sikh leader who has been accused of inciting militancy on social media in the past. He was the one who, according to police, provoked the mob of Sikh radicals to move from Khanda Chowk towards the Kali Mata temple on Friday. A team of police intelligence wing nabbed Parwana from the Mohali airport as he was trying to fly to Mumbai.

The others arrested were Sikh radicals Davinder Singh, Rajinder Singh and Shiv Dev, Shankar Bharadwaj and Gagi Pandit. Bharadwaj was the associate of the other main conspirator, Harish Singla of Shiv Sena (Bal Thackeray). A total of 25 people had been booked.

Tension still prevailed with both sides posting provocative messages on social media. The deputy commissioner urged people not to share any objectionable posts which could spark fresh unrest.

The blame game between the ruling AAP and the opposition, meanwhile, continued. M S Kang, AAP spokesperson, credited "quick and effective action" by CM Bhagwant Mann and police for the arrest of the mastermind within 48 hours. State Congress chief Amrinder Singh Raja Warring, on the other hand, slammed Mann for not visiting Patiala yet.

Warmer April triggers uptick in forest fires in Uttarakhand this year

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

UTTARAKHAND has witnessed 30% uptick in forest fires this April compared to the corresponding month last year. Experts attributed the spike to the unprecedented heat wave this year, coupled with a prolonged dry spell.

A G Ansari, a conservationist based in Ramnagar district which is home to the Corbett Tiger Reserve, said: "March witnessed 91% less rainfall and April 96%. Dry weather and high temperatures have been conducive to the rising fire incidents and their magnitude."

In April alone 1,137 incidents have been recorded in the state, charring 1,352 hectares of forests. As many as 1,713 forest fires have been registered across the state this season so far. Fire season in the hill state starts on February 15 and goes on till the onset of monsoon.

Meanwhile, the forest department's move to axe 5,000 forest guards amid the ongoing fire season has raised fears that it will adversely affect fire fighting operations. Officials said the decision was made due to budget constraints. Department officials said volunteers had been recruited at local level to control the damage. More than 300 vehicles have been pressed into service for preventing/controlling the fires.

Nishant Verma, nodal officer for forest fires, said: "Ground teams have been deployed along with drones to check fires."

The state has 40 control rooms and one Information Technology and Geoinformation Cell in Dehradun to keep check on the forest fires. There are 1,437 crew stations and 174 watch towers across the state.

In the last 12 years 30,245 hectares of forests in the state have been engulfed by fires. In December 2016, the high court had ordered suspension of the state forest chief if the fires continued for more than 72 hours. The Supreme Court, however, stayed the suspension.

85K HIV INFECTIONS DUE TO UNSAFE SEX IN LOCKDOWN

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

MORE than 85,000 people reported HIV transmission due to unprotected sex during the Covid-19 lockdown in 2020-21. Maharashtra topped the list of states with 10,498 cases, followed by Andhra Pradesh and Karnataka, which reported 9,521 and 8,947 cases, respectively.

The data was provided by the government in response to an RTI query from Madhya Pradesh-based activist Chandra Shekhar Gaur.

Surprisingly, the data on transmission was compiled on the basis of infections reported by the victims themselves, which shows the stigma attached to HIV/AIDS is gradually vanishing.

Uttar Pradesh also reported a high number of transmissions (6,905) due to unprotected sex, and so did Telengana (6,505) and Bihar with (5,462) during the first lockdown. Gujarat, Tamil Nadu and Rajasthan also saw high number of cases.

According to the official reply sent to Gaur, who shared details with this newspaper, 85,268 people in total from 36 states and Union Territories reported HIV transmission due to unprotected sex.

A senior NACO official, preferring anonymity, said the number may increase if others indulged in unsafe sex venture out for self-reporting to testing centres from the lockdown period.

Apart from this, 300 cases of 'mother to child' transmissions have also been reported from36 states during the lockdown period. "Among the 300 cases, Maharashtra and Karnataka again topped with 31 such cases each, followed by Odisha with 24 cases Rajasthan ( 22) ,UP (21), MP (20,) Gujarat and Telangana (18 cases each) AP ( 15), West Bengal (13) and Bihar with 10 cases," the RTI reply stated.

Bring higher education to rural areas to make it inclusive, equitable: Vice-Prez

IFRAH MUFTI @ New Delhi

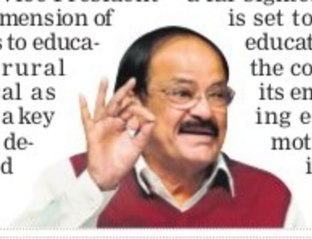
AS the University of Delhi entered the 100th year of formation, Vice-President M Venkaiah Naidu called for taking higher education in the rural areas and making it more inclusive and equitable. He was speaking at the DU's centenary celebration held at its North Campus on Sunday.

Stressing on sustainable global future, the Vice-President said that this dimension of equitable access to education for the rural youth is critical as education plays a key role in human development and creating a prosperous future.



Speaking on the occasion, Naidu emphasised that universities must come out with innovative ideas to address the pressing problems of the society. He also said that the ultimate aim of the research should be to make people's lives comfortable and happier.

Naidu also talked about the National Education Policy (NEP-2020) and described it as a far-sighted document which is set to revolutionise the educational landscape of the country. He said that its emphasis on imparting education in one's mother tongue – when implemented in schools, colleges and universities – will prove to be a game-changer.

Calling for providing basic education in a child's mother tongue, Naidu said the local language must be the main mode of communication in the administration and courts. "Every gazette notification and government order should be in the local or native language so that the common man understands it," he said.

The Vice-President said that although everything is available in India, still those who want to go abroad should go there, but should learn and come back to promote research in India.

Routine promotions delayed even for BSF officers: Home Ministry

The stagnation is equally bad at the officers' level where a BSF assistant commandant, who ought to have become a deputy commandant in five years, is taking 12 years to pick his first rank. There is major stagnation at every subsequent rank.

The MHA is the cadre controlling authority of the BSF. In its letter on April 20, the MHA acknowledged that not even routine promotions are happening on time.

As per the Department of Personnel and Training, cadre review is to be done every five years.

It says, "However, as per the details furnished by the Forces with regards to Departmental Promotion Committees (DPCs) for promotion of various ranks for the vacancy of 2022, it has been observed that a large number of DPCs for promotion in various ranks are pending finalisation."

The letter asked the CAPF, including the BSF and Assam Rifles, to try and complete the process of DPCs by June 30. But the senior officer was skeptical on whether it will address the widespread stagnation. The problem has become perennial because, "The MHA has no existing mechanism to monitor grievances and career progressions of CAPF officers and resolves them," the officer said.

LEGAL COVER

Heritage by-laws for protected sites and monuments soon

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

PROTECTED sites and monuments under the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) will soon get legal cover. The National Monument Authority (NMA) has expedited the process of framing heritage by-laws for these sites and monuments with support from Union culture ministry. W

The NMA has engaged heritage expert agencies and universities to prepare the draft regulations mandated by the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Sites and Remains (Amendment and Validation) Act 2010.

In the last 10 years, by-laws only for seven monuments/sites have been framed and presented before Parliament.

According to ministry officials, ASI's regional directors, defined as competent authority, were entrusted with the responsibility of preparing the draft. However, only 101 could be prepared till January 2020 due to the workload.

"A meeting was held in the ministry in November to determine factors or stumble blocks. Major hurdles preventing the progress were identified and decisions were taken. One was to outsource preparing by-laws to heritage expert bodies to ease the burden," said an official.

Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage (INTACH) was already mentioned in the Act and following approval from the ministry, more than 30 expert heritage bodies such as Reach Foundation, Chennai, Aga Khan Trust for Culture and School of Planning and Architecture, Bhopal, were added to the list of experts agencies to prepare the by-laws. "We are in the process of engaging 8-10 more agencies so that we can have a larger pool of expert bodies," said an official.

There are 3,690 protected sites under ASI's jurisdiction. Amjad Ali Shah's mausoleum in Lucknow and Sher Shah Gate, Khair-ul Manazil and Purana Quila, all in Delhi, are among the seven monuments for which by-laws have been presented in Parliament.

200 kilometre stretch between Pradhan Khunta and Bandhua stations on the Grand Chord line

17 Number of power plants to be set up

Railway Energy Management Company Limited to erect the plants

Plan to give solar push to trains gains momentum

First-of-its-kind project taken up by Dhanbad railway division

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

DHANBAD Railway Division is gearing up to become the first in the country to ply trains on solar power.

According to railway officials, they have chalked out a plan under which certain potion of the total power load will be shared by solar energy, which ultimately will reduce total running cost of railways.

The initiative will be taken up in the 200-kilometer stretch between Pradhan Khunta and Bandhua stations on the Grand Chord line within Dhanbad division.

To make the project possible, power plants will be installed at 17 different locations between the two stations to harness solar energy, for which, land has already been identified. The task of installing solar power plants has been assigned to Railway Energy Management Company Limited (REMCL).

According to senior railway officials, conventional power requirement to run trains can be reduced to a large extent if an additional source of energy is available.

"Trains at a speed of 160 km per hour have to be run between Howrah and New Delhi, and efforts are being made to run all of them on solar power in the portion between Bandhua and Pradhan Khunta in Dhanbad division," said Dhanbad's divisional railway manager Ashish Bansal.

It has been decided to install solar power plants at 17 locations to harness energy in this particular stretch of nearly 200 kilometers, he added.

The DRM, however, said there are some legal issues related to land leasing, which have to be sorted out, and hence, the project is getting delayed.

Railway officials said complete dependency on solar power is not feasible as sunlight would not be available all the time, and hence a system is being developed so that power could be shared between solar and conventional energy.

"Solar power will be used as a support system, under which, certain potion of the total load is shared by solar power, which ultimately will lead to reduction of power bill," said senior divisional commercial manager Akhilesh Pandey.

This is a new technology and possibly is the first such initiative in the country, he claimed.

Minding pandemic, Uttarakhand caps Char Dham footfall

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

TAKING into various factors, including the recent surge in Covid numbers, the Uttarakhand government has put a cap on the number of visitors allowed at the Char Dham shrines when the pilgrim season starts on May 6 with the opening of the portals of Kedarnath.

While 12,000 pilgrims will be allowed per day at Kedarnath, the figures will be 15,000; 7,000 and 4,000 for Badrinath, Gangotri and Yamunotri, respectively.

Harish Chandra Semwal, secretary of culture, said the pilgrims are required to register themselves before the visit. Registration facilities are available online (www.registrationandtourism.uk.gov.in) as well as offline. "This system is for the first 45 days of the yatra. Further arrangements will be made depending on the situation including the Covid factor," he said.

The government has taken away the need for mandatory Covid test report. However, other Covid protocols such as face mask and social distancing will be enforced, said the official. Till date, 2.86 lakh people have registered for the yatra. The routes to the shrines will remain closed between 10pm and 4am to avoid road accidents.

This is the first time after 2019 the Yatra is expected to take place hassle-free.

All stakeholders, including priests, hotel owners and traders, are expecting a better pilgrim season.

The yatra provides work to more than 10,000 people directly or indirectly.

In 2019 more than 38 lakh pilgrims had visited the shrines. The offerings had come down to ₹8 crore in 2020 from ₹55 crore in 2019. In 2021, however, the footfall witnessed a jump with more than 5 lakh pilgrims visiting the temples compared to 3.22 lakh pilgrims in 2020.

Last year the yatra started on September 18 after the Uttarakhand High Court gave green signal to the pilgrimage. The HC had allowed Char Dham Yatra with Covid safety measures and restrictions.

Significantly, the Char Dham law which was brought in by the Trivendra Singh Rawat goverment to control the four shrines was abolished this year, leading to the management going back to the traditional system.

This year's pilgrim season starts on May 6 with the opening of the portals of Kedarnath

Buzz over 'next move' as PK arrives in Bihar capital

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

THE strained relationship between Bihar NDA partners BJP and JD-U, and strategist Prashant Kishor reaching Patna on Sunday have set off fresh speculations about the latter's motives in the state.

The I-PAC head is likely to meet leaders of different political parties, including Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, during his two-day stay in the capital.

Even as the state keenly waits for Nitish's next political move, Kishor's maiden visit to Bihar after the West Bengal election is expected to clear the air on various possibilities. This include Nitish being projected as Presidential candidate from the Mahagathbandhan or the BJP offering to elevate him as Vice-President of India.

Kishor had earlier worked for JD-U in the 2015 state assembly polls.

"There is no denying the fact that Kishor's visit assumes political significance. He has come with some special purpose," said a political analyst, referring to the fluid political scene. The relationship between BJP and JD-U has of late got strained following differences over several issues.

Old pension plan if Cong wins MP polls, says Nath

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

EYING the upcoming Assembly polls in Madhya Pradesh, former chief minister and state Congress chief Kamal Nath on Sunday announced that the grand old party would restore the old pension scheme if voted back to power in the state.

Addressing an event of MP Shikshak Congress (teachers' wing of the party) in Bhopal, the septuagenarian politician said, "You all know our commitment to the old pension scheme (OPS), which has already been implemented in Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh; so it is obvious that what has been implemented in other Congress-ruled states will also be implemented by us here on being voted to power."

With Nath's announcement, it is clear that bringing back OPS will form a key part of the party's 2023 manifesto, work on which is likely to start soon.

The timing of Nath's announcement assumes significance as it comes well ahead of the polls.

Significantly, the announcement was made at the programme of teachers as the Congress knows well that out of the 3.35 lakh government employees likely to be benefited from the restoration of OPS in MP, around 2.87 lakh are teachers.

Congress backing the OPS isn't new. However, this is perhaps the first time that the party's state president has promised restoring OPS.

UP Cong looks for Brahmin chief

New Delhi: Congress is on the lookout for a Brahmin face to lead its Uttar Pradesh unit following the rout in recent Assembly elections, keeping in mind the anti-Brahmin image of CM Yogi Adityanath. During several meetings to discuss revamp of the state unit headed by general secretary in-charge Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, senior leaders have expressed that getting a Brahmin face would help the party as the Brahmins form a sizable 14% population in UP. Congress used to be the first choice of UP Brahmins but over the years several of party's Brahmin faces switched over to BJP. ENS

SELLING 'DELHI MODEL', KEJRIWAL BID TO WIN GUJARAT VOTERS

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

TRYING to project his party as the alternative to the ruling BJP in Gujarat, Aam Aadmi Party chief Arvind Kejriwal on Sunday claimed that AAP would defeat the saffron party in the upcoming Assembly poll in the state.

At his first public rally after the AAP allied with Bhartiya Trible Party (BTP) in tribal-dominated Bharuch district, Kejriwal mocked the ruling party for "creating a world record in paper leaks" and lamented the "derelict condition" of schools and hospitals in the state.

Daring the BJP to call early polls in the state, Kejriwal said: "I heard speculations that Gujarat elections will happen early because they (BJP) are scared of the AAP... We have formed two governments in Delhi and one recently in Punjab, and now it is the turn of Gujarat. They (BJP) feel that if they give us time till December, Gujarat will turn towards AAP. But I am telling you, I only have the hand of God and the support of the people. You (BJP) can conduct elections now or six months later, I will defeat you."

AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal at a function in Gujarat's Bharuch on Sunday | PTI

Listing out the freebies given by his government in Delhi, Kejriwal said: "Today, the costliest power is being supplied in Gujarat but electricity is free in Delhi. How is Delhi getting free electricity? Delhi has a corruption-free government. I don't allow people to siphon-off money. If you vote the AAP into power in Gujarat, you will have electricity, water and medical services free just like Delhi."

Two of the country's richest people and the poorest tribals come from here. The BJP and Congress are standing with the rich and making them richer

Arvind Kejriwal, AAP chief

Kejriwal ridiculed the education department of Gujarat, enlisting the alleged exam paper leaks. "The BJP has created a bizarre world record in exam paper leaks. They have broken all world records in paper leaks. I have heard that the Guinness Book Record officials held a meeting yesterday and they are going to add the BJP's name to the list of maximum paper leaks. There is even a paper leak of Class VII in this list," he sarcastically.

Pitching the 'Delhi Model' governance in the western state, Kejriwal invited the Gujarat chief minister to visit Delhi for a "guided tour".

Saffron camp to launch mass contact drive ahead of J&K Assembly polls

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

WITH Assembly polls in Jammu and Kashmir expected within a few months, the BJP will soon rollout its mass contact programme across the union territory to reach out to the electorate.

During the programme, BJP leaders will try to gather public opinion and feedback on the welfare schemes and development projects initiated by the party-led administration in the UT. Recently, the party held its core group meeting in Jammu which was chaired by state unit chief Ravindra Raina.

Spokesperson Arun Gupta told this newspaper that the mass contact programme would be launched within a week in both Jammu and Kashmir regions. "All levels including the booth committees would be covered under the mass contact programme. We will hear the grievances reported by the public and seek their redressal," he said.

The Assembly elections are likely to be held in October-November with the Delimitation Commission expected to submit its report this month.

Sources said the party leaders may focus on areas in Doda, Kishtwar, Rajouri and Poonch districts of Jammu region and Kupwara, Bandipora and Anantnag in the Valley, where the BJP feels that the party has chances of winning. Leaders may also reach out to Gujjar and Bakerwal communities as the Delimitation Commission has proposed reserving nine seats in J&K assembly for STs.

The saffron camp will also hold workers' meetings across the UT during which leaders would stress on its cadre to reach out to masses and also make themselves more accessible to the public.

As per political observers, the BJP mooted the mass contact programme to consolidate and develop its vote bank and support base in J&K.

In 2014 Assembly polls, the party had won all the seats in the Jammu region.

"If BJP wants to form the government in J&K, then it has to win most of the 43 seats proposed in Jammu region and also win some seats in the Valley," said a political observer.

Cong's Ashwin Kotwal likely to join BJP

Gujarat Congress is in for another setback in the run up to the Assembly polls. According to sources, Khedbrahma's Congress MLA Ashwin Kotwal will leave the party and join the BJP on May 3. Tribal leader Ashwin Kotwal has been an MLA for 3 consecutive terms. If Ashwin Kotwal leaves Congress, the party could suffer huge losses in the tribal belt. However, he has been upset with the Congress ever since tribal leader Sukhram Rathwa was elevated as opposition leader. Earlier, Ashwin Kotwal had met Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel. Kotwal was absent from Congress' Adivasi Satyagraha programme despite being a tribal leader. He was also inactive in assembly sessions.

Who is stopping Hardik Patel's saffron camp entry?

Recently, Congress working president and Patidar leader Hardik Patel changed his tone and tenor against his leadership, signalling that he would join the BJP. The misfortune of Congress is that from the ward level, the state leaders are threatening to join the BJP. Interestingly, there exists another group in the party which firmly believes against Hardik joining BJP. According to sources, former CM Anandiben Patel and her camp is strongly irked with Hardik's entry into the BJP. Now, if Hardik has to join BJP he has to line up with Narendra Modi. Back in 2016, the Patidar agitation spearheaded by Hardik had unsettled affairs of the then Anandiben Patel government – eventually leading to her resignation.

Defectors insecure as BJP mulls 'no-repeat' theory

Lobbying by leaders vying for candidature for the Assembly elections of the BJP has begun in full swing. However, Congress defectors to the BJP are in a catch-22 situation for it's very difficult to get a BJP ticket because of the party's plan for a 'no-repeat theory'. If this happens then many veteran leaders of BJP will have to take a step back. According to the source, the tickets of more than 100 leaders who are currently BJP MLAs will be cut. If this happens then their political career is doomed. With less chances of repatriation of such leaders, may are also considering joining the Aam Aadmi Party if the grand old party refuses to welcome them back.

Minor girl threatened with video clip, gangraped in Bengal's Birbhum dist

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

WEEKS after West Bengal witnessed a furor over the rape and murder of a minor girl in Nadia's Hanskhali, another gangrape of a minor girl has shocked the state.

Police said the gangrape took place in Birbhum district's Bolpur over a period of past few days. "The girl's mother noticed her unusual behaviour and lodged a complaint with us. In the complaint, she alleged her daughter was gangraped after being threatened by the accused that a video clip of her private conversation with a friend would be made viral on social media. We have arrested four accused persons and are conducting raids to nab another suspect," said a police officer.

The police have seized the mobile phones of the accused for forensic examination.

This is the second incident of gangrape being reported in Bolpur recently. Last month, three persons, including a minor, were arrested on the charge raping a minor girl from Bolpur.

Once again, the incident has brought the TMC government on back foot as opposition parties have attacking it over the "deteriorating" law and situation in the state.

Notice to UP police over woman's death

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

TAKING cognisance of a woman found hanging from the wall of a private hospital in Unnao in Uttar Pradesh, the National Commission for Women (NCW) on Sunday asked the state police to arrest the accused persons immediately. The family of the deceased has alleged that she was raped and then murdered.

NCW chairperson Rekha Sharma has written to Uttar Pradesh DGP to file an FIR against the accused persons immediately. The panel has sought the arrest of all the accused and a copy of the postmortem report. "Action taken must be apprised within seven days," it said.

The body of a woman, said to be a nurse, was found hanging from the wall of a private hospital, which opened last week, in Unnao on Saturday. Police have named three persons, including the owner of the hospital, as accused.

Police, however, said rape was not confirmed during the autopsy.

'If loudspeakers stay, Chalisa at double volume'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mumbai

MAHARASHTRA Navnirman Sena (MNS) chief Raj Thackeray on Sunday said if the ruling Maha Vikas Aghadi fails to remove loudspeakers at mosques by the May 3 ultimatum that he had issued, party workers will play Hanuman Chalisa at "double the volume" outside mosques.

The MNS chief made the remark while addressing a rally in Aurangabad. He participated in similar rallies in Mumbai and Thane and promised to address many more across the state.

He said that in other states, loudspeakers at mosques have been removed, and wondered why it was not done in Maharashtra. Thackeray also attacked NCP chief Sharad Pawar and said he was responsible for the caste politics in Maharashtra.

Around 100 civilians evacuated from Mariupol steel plant: Zelenskyy

Makes announcement on Twitter | Russia's defence ministry cites lower figure of 80 civilians

KYIV

ROUGHLY 100 civilians have been evacuated from a besieged steel plant in the eastern Ukrainian city of Mariupol, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said on Sunday.

The UN said earlier that a "safe passage operation" was going on at the Azovstal plant, the last holdout in the Black Sea port city that has endured a Russian blockade for the full duration of the conflict that began on February 24.

Russia's defence ministry gave a lower figure of 80 civilians, adding: "Those who wished to leave for areas controlled by the Kyiv regime were handed over to UN and ICRC (Red Cross) representatives."

The UN has not said how many civilians it is transporting and it was not immediately clear why the sides had given different figures. Thousands have been killed and millions displaced since Russia's invasion, and stories of the harsh conditions in besieged Mariupol have horrified the world.

"Evacuation of civilians from Azovstal began," Zelenskyy said on Twitter, adding that they were due to arrive in Ukraine-controlled Zaporizhzhia on Monday.

"Grateful to our team! Now they, together with UN, are working on the evacuation of other civilians from the plant." The Russian defence ministry earlier confirmed civilians were leaving, releasing a video that showed cars and buses travelling in the dark marked with a "Z", the letter used by the Russian forces in the conflict.

Meanwhile, Pope Francis used his weekly prayer to renew his appeal for humanitarian corridors from the city, saying it had been "bombed and destroyed in a barbaric manner". Western powers have rushed to send military aid to Ukraine and imposed heavy sanctions on Russia.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy (R) presents the Order of Princess Olga to US Speaker of the House of Representatives Nancy Pelosi during their meeting in Kyiv | AFP

"Do not be bullied by bullies," US Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi told reporters in Rzeszow in southern Poland on Sunday after returning from Ukraine. "If they are making threats, you cannot back down." Pelosi met Zelenskyy on Saturday, becoming the most senior US figure to visit since the war began. She promised to enact the $33-billion (31-billion-euro) arms and support package announced by US President Joe Biden last week.

Western powers have also hit Russia with unprecedented sanctions and EU foreign policy chief Josep Borrell said on Sunday more measures were in the pipeline. The conflict is concentrated in the east and south of Ukraine, although there have been Russian missile strikes across the country, mainly targeting infrastructure and supply lines. Russia's defence ministry also on Sunday said it had used high-precision Onyx missiles to strike a hangar at a military aerodrome near the Black Sea port city of Odessa housing arms from the United States and European countries and destroyed the runway. AFP

UKRAINE SAYS IT'S STALLING RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE

Kyiv: The Ukrainian army said a Russian offensive along a broad front in the country's east has been stalling amid human and material losses inflicted by Kyiv's forces. The General Staff of the Armed Forces of Ukraine on Sunday said Russian troops were trying to advance in the Sloboda, Donetsk and Tauride regions, but were being held back by Ukrainian forces. Separately, Ukrainian intelligence officials accused Russian forces of destroying medical infrastructure and denying medical care to residents in occupied cities and towns. Ukrainian officials also said internet and cellular communications were cut in a large area in the Russian-occupied Kherson region and part of the Zaporizhzhia region. AP

Not a good time for investing in real estate

Experts not in favour of buying a 2nd home for investment, as residential properties are low income yielding assets

BIVEKANANDA BISWAS
@ New Delhi

BUYING a home is set to cost more as there has been a substantial increase in prices of materials such as steel, cement and iron. Experts say prices are still reasonable and it is a good time to buy a home for the first-time homebuyers before prices go up further.

Multiple reports suggest home prices will go up and some of the developers have already adjusted cost to the project price, which include Godrej Properties, and DLF. But is it the time to invest in real estate?

Buying vs investing

Personal finance experts say since prices have been stagnant for the past five years, the time-value of owning a home is good. However, most experts were not in favour of buying a second home for investment purposes, as residential properties are low income yielding assets.

Mumbai-based tax and investment expert Balwant Jain said, "One thing should be kept in mind is that one should buy a home when they have the money to make the down-payment and also they should be sure that they can pay instalments comfortably." In case of a second home, Jain suggests one can buy a second home for investment purposes too, as prices are low at this moment, but it should be when they have excess money to make the down-payment and also when they have the income flow to pay instalments.

Jain further suggests that one should not buy based on interest rates (whether it is low or high currently) as, in a floating rate regime, rates fluctuate. Jitendra Salonki, a Noida-based Sebi-registered investment advisor, said, "The last one year has been an excellent opportunity for buying a home as prices have been stagnant for years now. First-time home buyers should definitely invest in housing." However, Salonki is not in favour of buying a home for investment purposes as it is a low-yielding investment.

"One should go for equity instead of putting money on this (home) when one already has a place to stay. However, one can look for opportunities in the commercial real estate space, which could provide higher yields."

Low return in investment

Though chances of increase in real estate prices are high, yet experts are mostly advising against committing a large sum in real estate for the purpose of investment. They argue the returns from investment in real estate might be limited. "I wouldn't recommend buying a house for investment purposes as the return might not be very high, plus there will be maintenance costs and if one wants to sell it isn't as liquid as you'd want your investment to be," says Shweta Jain, CFP, Author, Founder Investography.

Kunal Bhalla, co-Founder & CEO of CRC Group inflation has led to an unwanted hike in the input costs and general project development expenditure. "Sales and growth appreciation, as well as correction in the market was long due, however if we see a decade's data from 2014 -15 especially, rates were stagnant and there was no appreciation. "So, the correction was much-awaited and the market is moving towards its maturity."

What's fueling the real estate market?

Activity in India's residential real estate segment has seen an increase in the first three months of 2022 as record-low home loan interest rates fueled consumer enthusiasm, along with government-sponsored subsidy programmes. According to a property consultant Anarock report, home sales have been highest in the first three months of 2022 in the last seven years.

Housing sales in the top seven cities in the country rose 71% in the January-March quarter to 99,550 units, compared with 58,290 units sold in the year ago quarter. A report by online real estate major PropTiger.com, which owns Housing.com & Makaan.com, shows home sales and new launch numbers have seen a year-on-year growth in the period between January and March, 2022.

The report by the Gurgaon-headquartered company shows 70,623 units were sold in Q1,2022, as compared to 66,176 units sold in Q1,2021, registering 7% YoY growth. The improvement in terms of new supply was significantly higher, with a YoY growth of 50% in new launches during the same period.

The report was based on the data from Ahmedabad, Bengaluru, Chennai, Hyderabad, Kolkata, Mumbai-Metropolitan Region, Delhi-National Capital Region and Pune. Confederation of Real Estate Developers Association of India (CREDAI), in a report last month, said residential real estate prices are expected to go up nearly 10-15% in the coming months as commodity costs have been on the rise over the past several months, in the wake of supply chain constraints due to Covid-19 pandemic, which has only worsened due to the Russian invasion of Ukraine.

Vikas Wadhawan, Group CFO, Housing.com, said the spike in rates have been between 4% and 9% annually. Price appreciation would be further compounded by rising home loan rates if the RBI were to hike the benchmark lending rate during its upcoming policy review meeting in June, which may well be on the cards given inflationary pressures.

Sanjay Sharma, Director, SKA Group, said, "The housing prices may see an upward trend because of the rise in the construction material costs, which has increased the overall operational costs for developers."

FLEXIBILITY FOR THE FUND MANAGER

FINANCIAL ADVICE

ASHOK KUMAR
Head of LKW-India. He can be reached at ceolotus@hotmail.com

A while after SEBI introduced tightly defined categories of equity mutual funds based on market capitalization, it woke up to the fact that many Asset Management Companies (AMCs) that ran multi-cap funds had portfolios that more or less mirrored other categories such as large cap, large and mid-cap or even mid-cap and small cap funds as it had set no pre-defined limits across Market-capitalizations.

SEBI then announced that Multi Cap Funds are required to hold at least 75% of their assets in equity and equity-related instruments at any point in time. Further, the portfolio must allocate at least 25% of its assets to large-cap stocks, 25% to mid-cap stocks, and another 25% to small-cap stocks. When the industry protested, SEBI backtracked and created yet another category named Flexi-Cap Funds.

Flexi Cap Funds got defined as funds that invest at least 65% of their assets in equities and equity-related products, with a dynamic allocation between large-cap, mid-cap, and small-cap stocks. It was introduced as a new category of equity funds in November, 2020. As opposed to multi-cap funds, these funds had the leeway to provide heavier weightage in their investments across any market capitalization category, if they deemed it fit.

Any remaining portion that the fund may have, after investing in stocks across market capitalizations can be invested in debt and money market instruments. As an equity fund, Flexi Cap funds too carry inherent risk that is likely to accentuate in the short run and could potentially even out in the long Run. A plus for the Flexi-Cap category is that it offers the fund manager a much broader canvas to deploy funds and allows them to be far more nimble footed when market trends start changing. In short, it is not strait-jacketed by minimum or maximum limits across market capitalization categories. It is by and far, the closest fit to the erstwhile vanilla funds that past mutual fund investors had built their fortune on, till SEBI's categorization of funds happened.

It is against this backdrop that I was surprised when SEBI imposed a minimum 25% across market capitalization categories for multi- cap funds. My question then (regular readers of this column might remember) was - 'If it ain't broken, why fix it' ? Thankfully, better sense prevailed and the old multi-cap category which was the one that was tinkered with, made a comeback under the new label of Flexi-cap funds.

The taxation of these funds, like all other Equity category Funds is 10% for Long Term Capital Gains (LTCG) made on the sale of units of total value exceeding ₹1 Lakh, and 15% for Short Term Capital Gains (STCG) if the units are sold within the time period of 1 year from the date of allotment. The Benchmarks used by Flexi Cap Funds and Multi Cap Funds to evaluate their performance include the Nifty 500 TRI Index and & BSE 500 TRI Index. In the next column, we shall zoom in on the performances of some of the funds from the Flexi-Cap category.

Amazon asks RBI to run forensic audit of FRL

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE Future-Amazon dispute has now reached the RBI, with the US-based e-commerce company requesting the central bank to run a forensic audit of Future Retail (FRL) for the past three fiscal years for allegedly committing fraud in collusion with the Reliance group.

The nub of the letter's allegations are that FRL implemented a stratagem to transfer 835 of its retail stores to Reliance Retail despite an injunction from a Singapore Emergency Arbitrator against any alienation of its assets and before the NCLT approving the transfer of such assets to the oil to telecom behemoth. An Arbitral Tribunal had upheld the EA's order in favour of Amazon.

Through this stratagem FRL allegedly committed fraud against Courts, Tribunals, lenders and the public. The lenders, Amazon states, had under a Framework Agreement provided the company with facilities relying upon its FY21 Annual Report which cited it having enough financial resources to pay lease rentals.

However, the letter adds that before the Framework Agreement with banks, FRL entered into sub-leasing arrangements with Reliance which allegedly contradicts its statements in the Annual Report on its financial strength.

"The stratagem to alienate the retail stores grossly undervalues the retail stores and moreover falls under acts amounting to wrongful trading to defraud creditors," the letter states. "Additionally, the Promoters, KMPs and directors of FRL are liable for terms of imprisonment under various provisions of law including the Companies Act and action under Wilful Defaulter Circular and RBI Fraud Circular." Future Group and RIL spokespersons were not immediately available for comment.

WHY THE 'RETIRE EARLY' THEME IS ABOUT HARD WORK

RAJAS KELKAR

YOU want to follow your passion. You are tired of your regular job that starts at nine in the morning but has no end. This column had, in the past, touched upon the topic of 'Financial Independence, Retire Early' or FIRE. Giving up a routine life and following your passion is easier said than done. The problem with that is your ordinary life pays for your bills. Your life driven by passion is unlikely to be equally remunerative.

To retire early and follow your passion, you need to change your life. Scott Rieckens, an American author who wrote a book, "Playing with FIRE (Financial Independence Retire Early)," argues you have to save money at a high and accelerated rate. That requires you to make drastic changes to your current lifestyle. You need to ask yourself questions about giving up things.

The key to success in saving more is the effort to control the urge to spend. When we start work, our general tendency is to spend. There is little effort to save or invest as we either lack knowledge or have the will to think about rainy days. You can do that if you are sure of your future income. However, if you are in a job that pays you well now, you need to work towards saving and investing more today. That way, you can plan your early exit from the routine nature of your job. Some people start early but never finish their work on time. Many of you work multiple shifts to earn a living. While some of you may enjoy your work now, many people are passionate about other things than their regular work.

You need to change your lifestyle

THE PANDEMIC

The Covid-19 pandemic has turned into a game-changer for work-life. Many people who thought working from home was not possible at their jobs have figured it out. Companies that thought working from home was a waste of resources had benefited from cost savings by shifting operations to that mode. While the world adjusts to a new normal at the workplace, many of you realised that you could offer your skills to many more companies than just one.

There is a surge in self-employed or freelance workers. People have quit their routine jobs and started taking up assignments based on their comfort during the day. The 'great resignation' phenomenon hit technology services companies with a higher than average attrition rate. More people have quit than joined IT services companies after the lockdown. Those in the IT services industry who have spent a couple of decades working in a regular job may be able to generate a steady income through savings. They can choose to follow their passion and ensure that they balance their lives better than before. That applies to everyone who wishes to do so. Retiring earlier than 60 does not mean giving up work. You will continue to work at your own pace. However, you do need the support of your savings.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

If you are at a stage where you have saved well for the past decade, you may want to look at the value of your liquid assets. What monthly income can you generate by putting these savings to work? Assuming you invest your savings into a monthly income plan, you could develop a regular income. Typically, these funds give you an 8-10% return annually. For savings of ₹1 crore, you can generate up to ₹85,000 per month.

You then need to look at your expenses and see if that covers your monthly expenses. If you own more than one home, you may want to sell the second one and add to that kitty to boost your monthly income. As we argued in the past, your age between 25 and 50 is the time when you save and invest the most. If you wish to hang up your boots early from a day job and do something you are passionate about, you need to work towards creating a savings pool that would allow you to have a regular income.

April PV sales in slow lane; Poor show by MSIL

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S largest carmaker Maruti Suzuki (MSIL) sold fewer cars in the first month of fiscal 2022-23 as against the same month last fiscal. MSIL domestic passenger vehicle (PV) sales stood at 121,995 units in April 2022 compared to 135,879 units sold in April 2021. The carmaker's April 2022 sales is even lower than its March 2022 sales when it had dispatched 1,33,861 units in the domestic PV market.

"The shortage of electronic components had a minor impact on the production of vehicles, mainly domestic models. The Company took all possible measures to minimise the impact," repeated MSIL in a regulatory filing on Sunday.

The carmaker on Friday had informed that production during FY22 was impacted by shortage of electronic components by an estimated 270,000 vehicles and that it had pending customer bookings of about 268,000 vehicles at the end of the year.

The sharp plunge in April sales for MSIL also comes as demand for smaller cars continue to hit new lows. MSIL's mini and compact segment sales last month stood at 76,321 units as against 97,359 units in April 2021.

Maruti Suzuki India Chairman R.C. Bhargava said on Friday, "There's no butter in small cars anymore. We will have to change our strategy. People with limited income are getting squeezed out of the car market due to higher cost...The market for hatchbacks is shrinking significantly."

As per the industry sources, the present stock of all edible oils in the country is 21 lakh tonnes approx and 12 lakh tonnes approx. is in transit arriving in May, 2022," the food and consumer affairs ministry said. On the oilseeds front, the agriculture ministry's second advance estimate released in February 2022 showed a very positive picture of soyabean production for the year 2021-22 at 126.10 lakh tonnes.

The commercial LPG price was increased by ₹105 on March 1 and by ₹250 on April 1. However, there has been no change in the prices of domestic gas cylinders. # Nifty to test crucial support of 16850 next week

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

MARKETS could open on a rough note on Monday with the SGX Nifty trading 163 points below the Nifty closing of 17102.55 on Friday reflecting the deep cuts in the US market where the Nasdaq logged the worst monthly closing since October 2008.

SGX Nifty is a derivative of the Nifty traded on the Singapore Stock Exchange.

The Nifty could move in a 3.4% range from 16805 - 17395 early next week with bias for the downside. The market could be very choppy with fear gauge India Vix closing at 19.41. A reading above 20 signals a rise in volatility. "Expect choppy markets going forward in a week filled with the market keenly eyeing the Fed meeting," said Rajesh Palviya, technical head at Axis Securities.

"Results have clearly shown margin pressures on large IT and that could also have a bearing on markets." Amid banks, despite strong results by Axis and ICICI Bank, the stocks corrected post their Q4 numbers, which shows the "weak market texture", said SK Joshi, ED, Khambatta Securities. Joshi also feels the week would open on a "volatile " note.

FIIs on selling spree

FIIs have sold Indian shares worth $2.23 bn in April so far, after having sold equities worth $18.47 bn, the most since they entered the Indian markvet in FY1999. FIIs are selling shares of EMs like India with the US Federal Reserve expected to raise its benchmark interest rate by 50 bps in the May meeting. In March, it raised the rate by quarter percentage point from near zero.

The rise in the US rate reduces the risk free rate of return for investors who borrow cheap money in the US to invest here. That spurs selling by FIIs who move back to the greenback, said Hormuz Maloo. From its high of 18604.45 on October 19 last year, Nifty traded down 8% last Friday. Over the same period, the dollar index, which measures the greenback against a basket of six currencies, is up 10% to 103.23, in anticipation of Fed tapering and rising interest rates in future.

Rafael Nadal deemed Wimbledon's decision to ban Russian and Belarusian players from taking part in the Championships as "unfair", the Spanish tennis legend told reporters in Madrid on Sunday. ### Skipper slams fifty before Mohsin's four-wicket haul as Lucknow beat Delhi by six runs

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

EVER since he missed the 2017 edition of the IPL with shoulder injury, KL Rahul has set the stage on fire on his return. On Sunday with his 51-ball 77, the Lucknow Super Giants skipper not only helped his side post a daunting total of 195/3 against Delhi Capitals at the Wankhede Stadium, Mumbai but also crossed the 400-run mark for the fifth consecutive time.

In the end, the target proved more than enough for the Rishabh Pant-led side as they responded with 189/7, losing the match by six runs. The win also helped Lucknow leapfrog Rajasthan Royals to be placed second on the table with 14 points from 10 matches.

Opting to bat first, Rahul, along with his opening partner Quinton de Kock, gave the team a flying start scoring 42 from 4.2 overs before the latter departed after a quick-fire 23 off just 13 balls. The Karnataka batter then joined forces with Deepak Hooda (52 off 34 balls), adding 95 runs for the second wicket and more importantly, nullifying the spin threat posed by the DC troika of Kuldeep Yadav, Lalit Yadav and Axar Patel, who went wicketless. The trio conceded 70 runs from a combined eight overs.

Given his form with the willow over the past five seasons since 2018 (2999 runs from 65 matches so far), Rahul can aptly be termed as Mr Consistent of the league. He had finished in the top-3 of leading run-getters from 2018 to 2021 winning the Orange Cap in the 2020 edition. In the ongoing edition, he is placed second behind Rajasthan's Jos Buttler (566, 9 matches) with 451 runs from 10 matches including two centuries and as many half-centuries. If Rahul and Hooda starred with the bat for the Lucknow franchise against Delhi, it was Uttar Pradesh's left-arm medium-pacer Mohsin Khan, who impressed with the ball. Opening the bowling for his side, the 23-year-old Mohsin claimed 4/16 from his four overs including the important wickets of David Warner (3), Pant (44) and Rovman Powell (35). He was later adjudged player of the match for his brilliant spell.

At one stage, Pant and Powell were threatening to run away with the game as the latter hit Krishnappa Gowtham for two consecutive sixes and a four, plundering 18 runs from the 12th over of the innings. Mohsin then castled the Delhi skipper in the next over with a fuller delivery. Pant's departure, however, didn't slow down the Jamaican, who continued scoring at a brisk pace.

With 50 needed off the last four overs, Mohsin once again did the trick as he bowled a short cutter angling across to finish just outside off. The West Indian tried to clear the longer leg-side boundary only to find Krunal Pandya at the deep midwicket. He then accounted for Shardul Thakur in the same over, almost sealing the deal for his side.

Axar (42 not out) and Kuldeep (16 not out) though used the long handle to good effect towards the end but their efforts could not bring the desired result for the team. Needing 21 from the last over, Kuldeep hit Marcus Stoinis' first delivery for a six, raising some hopes in the process. However, the Aussie and Lucknow held nerves to come out triumphant.

Brief scores: LSG 195/3 in 20 ovs (Rahul 77, Hooda 52; Thakur 3/40) bt DC 189/7 in ovs (Pant 44, Axar 42 n.o; Mohsin 4/16).

Ruturaj and Conway bring Chennai back to winning ways

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

AHEAD of the match against Sunrisers Hyderabad, Chennai Super Kings could get a maximum of 16 points by winning all their remaining matches and thereby, had a mathematical chance of making it to the playoffs depending on other outcomes.

So the tie against SRH was a must-win game and they were also looking to ensure a handsome win, keeping the net runrate in mind.

With Ravindra Jadeja handing over the captaincy back to MS Dhoni, CSK were hopeful for a turnaround.

The crucial game against Hyderabad was billed by many as Kane Williamson's pace battery comprising of the likes of Bhuvneshwar Kumar, T Natarajan, Marco Jansen, Umran Malik versus CSK batting.

In the last edition of the IPL, both Faf du Plessis and Ruturaj Gaikwad had kept scoring in turns in crucial games and had helped CSK bag the title. With Faf in the RCB camp and Ruturaj yet to discover the form of the last season, CSK have found it difficult to get off to good starts and register big partnerships.

Robin Uthappa, Shivam Dube and Ambati Rayudu have also been inconsistent. Moeen Ali and Ravindra Jadeja, the two spin-bowling all-rounders, are yet to play to potential. Ahead of Sunday's vital tie, CSK coach Stephen Fleming had said that he was hopeful that the CSK batting can click as a unit and also wanted one player to take the game deep till the end.

Ruturaj Gaikwad and Devon Conway put together a record 182 runs for the first wicket against Sunrisers Hyderabad at MCA Stadium in Pune on Sunday | SPORTZPICS

Keeping in mind the situation, CSK dropped Shivam Dube and Dwayne Bravo and brought in Devon Conway and Simarjeet Singh for SRH tie. Those changes worked as half-centuries by Ruturaj (99) and Conway (85 n.o) enabled CSK tow post 202 for 2 in 20 overs.

The duo added 182 runs for the first wicket in 17.5 overs and put their team in a solid position. The only miss was perhaps Ruturaj missing a century after getting so close. Eager to reach the magical figure, he mistimed the ball and scooped it to Bhuvneshwar at backward point off the bowling of T Natarajan.

Chasing 203, Abhishek Sharma and Kane Williamson began the chase in an aggressive manner. Newcomer Simarjeet erred in line and length and was thus hit all over the park. His first spell of two overs cost 24 runs. Thereafter, Mukesh Chaudhary, who had dropped the SRH opener on 20, made up for his lapse to get rid of the Hyderabad opener and also sent Rahul Tripathi back in the very next ball. SRH skipper Kane Williamson (47) and Nicholas Pooran (64 n.o) played well but that was not enough. In the end, CSK were victors by 13 runs.

Brief scores: CSK 202/2 in 20 ovs (Gaikwad 99, Conway 85 n.o) bt SRH 189/6 in 20 ovs (Williamson 47, Pooran 64 n.o, Abhishek 39; Choudhary 4/46).

Arsenal win, Everton near safe zone

AFP @ London

EVERTON kept alive their hopes of Premier League survival by shocking Chelsea 1-0 on Sunday. Goals from Rob Holding and Gabriel helped Arsenal win the London derby against West Ham 2-1 and retain the fourth spot.

Tottenham, who posted a comfortable 3-1 win over Leicester City are in fifth spot, two points behind their north-London rivals.

The result at a raucous Goodison Park means Frank Lampard's side are just two points from safety with five games to play — and will leave Leeds and Burnley sweating.

Rain hinders action, Priya unhappy with timing

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

AS the evening session of the track and field events started, the heavens opened up. It rained cats and dogs, accompanied with thunderstorms, forcing the then ongoing events to a sudden halt. Only one or two disciplines were completed in the evening at the Sree Kanteerava Indoor Stadium before rain played spoilsport on Sunday.

Despite the wait, the showers did not stop and the competition eventually kicked off with the 1500m decathlon around 7 pm under slight drizzle, which picked up further. It was evident that the athletes in the next few events were watchful of the slippery conditions and hence producing their best was difficult.

When it came to the 400m women's event, where Priya H Mohan, who is one of India's best woman quarter-miler in the country, and the favourite in her pet event, was made to wait in the pouring rain. In fact, when everything was ready, the starting gun failed to fire twice in wet conditions, forcing the athletes to head to the call room. When the race finally started, it was Priya, who clinched gold with ease at a timing of 54.43, which is way below her personal best, but she was not happy with her timings.

"I had come to the competition fully prepared and was looking to clock a good timing. But the conditions were such that I could not produce the timing I wanted. Also, had to go back and come back (due to rain and gun failure), and that did not help me at all before the race," said Priya, who was almost in tears after not being able to give her best.

In the morning session, Akshdeep Singh created a new meet record in the 20km race walk with a timing of 1:26.44.00. However, in the other disciplines, there were no rain obstacles with most of it being played out before evening. It was archer Sachin Gupta, who was at his menacing best, grabbing three golds in three finals in the recurve archery.

In hockey, Bangalore City University defended their KIUG title in the men's competition. The final between BCU and Guru Nanak Dev University was played at the Field Marshal KM Cariappa stadium and BCU's Harish Mutagar scored a brace as the local team won 3-0.

New coach Joydeep ready to serve as NRAI recalls Indian coaches

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

JOYDEEP Karmakar has a rare insight about the Olympic Games. After all, it was at the grand stage where he had captured the attention of many with a gutsy show during the 2012 Games. He might have missed the medal by the narrowest of margins (fourth) but the manner in which he had made a comeback after initial struggles in the men's 50m rifle prone event had earned him the respect from many quarters.

Now, after several years in the background, Joydeep is back in focus, albeit as chief coach of the national 50m rifle team. He is one of the new faces the National Rifle Association of India (NRAI) has brought in to lift the shooters after a forgetful Tokyo Olympics. Delighted to be handed this responsibility, Joydeep, who terms this part of his journey as 'Joydeep Karmakar 2.0', is keen to unlock the talent in store.

"I know a few of them (squad members). It is also good that we see a lot of fresh faces this time. I don't know them very much. They have just emerged recently. My point is, that I want to listen to them first, know their issues and not tell them what to do but find out their thought process. So we can have that ease to work along. My job is not to give summons but to actually facilitate the shooters. I'm here to serve them, I'm here to make them heroes," the 42-year-old says.

Just like old times

Musical duo Lucky Ali and Mikey McCleary, who first worked together on O Sanam, is collaborating again after almost 11 years for an album, Intezaar, the first song of which is out and trending

LUCKY Ali turns to music to express himself. He might never be in a hurry to create tunes, but Ali makes sure the wait is worth it. The singer is now out with his latest album Intezaar, which has touched over 2 million views.

Ali's loungey music has always been popular among music lovers and Intezaar has something to it that makes it a crowd-puller too. The music of the album is by composer and long-time associate Mikey McCleary. The first time McCleary and Ali worked together was for the singer's first album Sunoh in 1996, which created magic with the song O Sanam. The duo subsequently went onto work on many projects but is back together after a long break.

Ali says this is the first of many songs that is going to be out. "It's an album, but we'll be releasing one song at a time," says Ali, adding that the composition was done a while ago but they were waiting for the right time to release it. The lyrics are by IP Singh which was a 'new experience' for Ali. "IP brings in more depth and has worked around the tunes," he adds.

When the seasoned musical duo took a break from working together, 63-year-old Ali says it gave him time to explore live shows. "Music took me to live experiences where I overcame stage fright. Performing live was a new experience all together," says Ali.

Meanwhile, McCleary has been a shining star in the Bollywood music scene, whose last project was in Priyanka Chopra and Farhan Akhtar-starrer The Sky is Pink. This song, for McCleary, has been about revisiting some of his older ideas. "Intezaar was actually an idea that we had worked on around 10 years ago. I was going through some of the older works and found a rough outline. After developing the work, I showed it to Lucky who really liked it," says McCleary, speaking to CE from New York. "I loved working on it because even if it is not a fast track, there is an uplifting feel to it. It's a nice track that feels appropriate for the times we live in," he adds.

In times where remixes are trending, McCleary's music, especially his remix of Khoya Khoya Chand for the movie Shaitan in 2011, has revamped the notion of remixing old classics. "My interest in classics, like Hindi film songs from the '50s and '60s, came from my wife (Diksha Basu, an author), who used to play Geeta Dutt's classics. She encouraged me to experiment with that and I started doing that as a passion project," says McCleary.

Meet the only urban farmer from Bengaluru who made it to the list of environmental changemakers by National Geographic India

Zero-waste hero

ANILA KURIAN

IN 2007, Vani Murthy started composting at her Malleswaram home on a whim and posted details of her zero-waste lifestyle on Facebook. Today, the 'worm rani' as she is known, has a following of 23,80,000 on Instagram and has made it to the list of the 'One for Change' campaign by National Geographic India.

The only one from Bengaluru to make it to this list, Murthy says that there's never been a day when she feels like she's actually working. "I love all things trash — from composting to making things sustainable. That's the only thing I never complain about, so I absolutely love what I do and I'm thrilled to be recognised for my passion."

Already released on the channel, the episode with Murthy talks about her life's journey in the composting world, terrace gardening, natural cleaning products she makes and also the workshops she conducts regularly. The 60-year-old creates her own videos and edits them for social media. "I love creating reels. I don't do anything out of the ordinary when it comes to my everyday activities. I simply record them, edit the videos and put them up which seem to have reached a lot of youngsters who are also taking to composting and a sustainable way of life," she explains, adding that her favourite part is using sound tracks from the '70s and '80s in her videos.

Behind the scenes of the Nat Geo shoot

During the pandemic, her followership grew rapidly when she started doing more live videos. "The build I've had for social media has been completely organic but I don't do collabs with other creators for my videos. I barely use hashtags even though many have advised me to use them for more reach — my videos seem to be doing just fine without them," Murthy laughs.

She's been loving the celebrity status social media has given her. "I was recently the chief guest for the Bangalore Plant Swap event and I had so many people come up to me to talk and take a picture. It was really heartwarming to see people recognising me and wanting to know more about my ideas," she says.

From having regular birds visiting her garden for food and maggots, Murthy's passion for composting has only grown over the years. "I truly believe in this cause, I do think we can all make a difference if we pitch in too. I'm just doing what I love and feel is important for our world to survive. I hope that more people will follow suit," she says.

FIT BIT

VIPARITA SALABHASANA

(SUPERMAN POSE)

This pose is particularly helpful in strengthening your lower back muscles. From a prone position with the arms reaching forward, the arms, legs and chest simultaneously lift off the ground so that the body looks like Superman in flight. It increases flexibility and core strengthening. It is believed to balance the Anahata (heart), Visuddha (throat) and Manipura (solar plexus) chakras.

STEPS
- Lie on your stomach with your toes flat on the floor and your chin resting on the ground.
- Keep your legs together with your feet lightly touching each other.
- Stretch your arms out to the front as far as you can. Take a deep breath in and lift your chest, arms, legs and thighs off the floor. You resemble a Superman.
- Keep a smile on your face. Rather than making an effort to raise your hands and legs more, make a gentle effort to stretch your arms and legs away from your torso.
- So, feel the pull that is occurring at both ends. Ensure that your elbows and knees are not bent.
- While breathing with awareness, keep your attention on the stretch. As you exhale, gently lower your chest, arms and legs.
- You can do this pose any number of times as you wish and as per your comfort.

BENEFITS
- Stretches and strengthens the muscles of the chest, shoulders, arms, legs, abdomen and the lower back.
- Helps tone the abdomen and lower back.
- Massages the spine and keeps the back supple.
- Helpful in stretching the chest.
- Improves blood circulation.
- Works at the mind level when you take off, you can't but stay in the present and even if you want to, you can't think about any problem.
- It can be a good workout for the abs and stomach.
- In the Padma Sadhana sequence, it forms the fifth pose, after Bhujangasana.

LIMITATIONS
- It should not be practised if you have had an abdominal surgery recently or if you are pregnant.
- Those who are sick or have any ailment shouldn't indulge in the practise of this asana.

REMEMBERING KARMA IS A...VIXEN

RUBINATIONS

Hola! Bengaluru...

I was getting a tad bit too embroiled in this 'kannh' (evil eye) and negative vibe cross currents. My 'mother's little helper', my maid, and not to be confused with the Rolling Stone's famous song where a mother's helper was a reference to a hallucinogenic compound, was on the roll!

Jacklin-Jack, as she calls herself, had taken untold advantage of my (little) superstitions by turning herself into Merlin the Magician! Jokes apart, I now know why the doomsday-pundits and their ilk do brisk business. Giving into this nonsense is a downward spiral. One can get totally sucked into an abyss of superstitious balderdash! I gave a firm order that henceforth, all things 'blah and baloney' were to be banished forever. No more incense sticks, lime and chillies (unless they were used to make pickle) and other such inconsequential things were to be brought into the house for 'cleansing'. The end came when I found my slippers all facing soles up! I didn't even ask. I just said enough is enough.

So wearing my best smile and a new dress, I landed up at the ITC Gardenia for the Chaîne des Rôtisseurs World Chaîne Day celebrations. Usually, the Chaîne dinners are quite formal and stiff upper-lip, but keeping the sultry weather in mind, this was a chilled out affair. The relaxed roof-top ambiance with everyone dressed for summer, turned into a fun evening. Of course, being the oldest and most respected gastronomy society devoted to preserving the camaraderie and pleasures of the table, the array of food and drink served was outstanding.

Happily bolstered in the company of good friends, good food and even better Madeira, the happy hormones did their job and the raucous laughter and bonhomie continued well into the night.

I woke up the next morning invigorated and raring to go and promptly fell off a tall chair which I usually sit on to answer the intercom! Lying flat on my back I went through a surreal experience.

I remember falling (as if in slow motion), and I could hear the scratching sounds my nails made as I desperately tried to grip the table for support. I remember trying to break my fall by turning my body sideways to protect my head. Luck and good ju-ju was on my side as I didn't break any bones and came away with a twisted knee, broken toe-nail, bruises and a sore head!

I gingerly stepped out to my favourite watering-hole The Taj West End, after a couple of days only because they had a few of my powerful lady friends talking passionately about the sustenance of India's rich heritage of art, artforms and traditional weaving techniques supported by the Tata trust.

My good friend Kaveri Ponnappa, who is an author/anthropologist and a passionate conversationalist, was joined by danseuse Madhu Natraj and a few others to share their personal journeys. I was overtaken with a sense of nostalgia as I sat in the company of genteel people who listened with rapt attention as the impeccable staff and Somnath Mukherjee with Arjun Pandalai kept an eagle eye out for the comfort of their guests.

With evenings like this... good juju is bliss. Remember Karma is a...vixen!

PRAJWAL DEVARAJ TO STAR IN SUSPENSE THRILLER

Mahantesh Handral, who was previously associated with big star films, including Puneeth Rajkumar's James, will be directing his first feature film

CE FEATURES

WITH a handful of films in his slate, Prajwal Devaraj has become one of the busiest actors in Sandalwood. The Dynamic Prince of Sandalwood has multiple films in different stages of production. The Chowka actor, who is currently juggling between the shooting of Lohith's Mafia and Hariprasad Jakka's Gana is said to have signed another project.

It is reportedly a suspense-thriller directed by debutant Mahantesh Handral. The film will be set against the backdrop of the National Investigative Agency. Mahantesh has previously worked as co-director in major projects, including Puneeth Rajkumar-starrer James, directed by Chethan Kumar.

The yet-to-be-titled film will be backed by Bhaskar Shetty, who himself is an actor, having worked in over 90 films. This is Bhaskar's maiden production venture. The film is expected to enter production in August, with J Swamy set to crank the camera. In addition to this, Prajwal's lineup of releases includes Ram Narayan's Abbara and Khadar Kumar's Veeram. He will also be joining hands with editor-turned-director Kiran for a thriller

'AVATARA PURUSHA WILL BE A REFRESHING CHANGE FOR THE AUDIENCE'

... says actor Ashika Ranganath, who talks about her second outing with Sharan, and her first collaboration with director Suni and Pushkar Films

A SHARADHAA

THE well-loved combination of actors Sharan and Ashika Ranganath from Rambo 2 is back once again with filmmaker Suni's upcoming movie, Avatar Purusha, which will be out in two part series. Ahead of the film's release on May 6, Ashika reveals how this collaboration with Suni and Pushkar Films came to be. "The first time, when I heard the news of Suni and Sharan teaming up for a film, I felt it would make (for) an interesting film because I'm someone who enjoys the comedy genre. When you have an actor and director who are known to bring in a humour quotient in their films, I knew this would work. The excitement only doubled when I was on board," says Ashika, adding, "The audience, who liked the combo of Sharan and me in Rambo 2, are expecting something more from us in Avatara Purusha, and I'm confident that they will not be disappointed."

What makes Avatara Purusha interesting? Its new concepts, which include black magic blended with comedy and family emotions, and of course, Suni's signature style of filmmaking, according to Ashika. "Also, a director who has a good and different sense of humour, which makes it interesting," the actress adds.

"Secondly, Suni has a different approach to characters and is one of those few directors who give importance to every actor's role in the film. Since I had dubbed my portions for this film a while ago, I'm also looking forward to watching the entire movie on the silver screen," she says. Talking about her co-star Sharan, she says, "Comedy is Sharan's forte. To me, he is a good actor, and I enjoy watching him on the silver screen. To work with him again enabled me to learn a little more from him." When asked about the expectations KGF has set for Kannada cinema, Ashika opined that every Kannada cinema cannot be compared to KGF. "KGF's scale is huge and has a global appeal. However, recent pan-India films like RRR, Pushpa, and KGF were action entertainers. So, there's a need for comedies, and I'm sure Avatara Purusha will provide that," she says.

The Avatara Purusha heroine also has Raymo and O2 in her kitty. She will also make her debut in Tamil with an untitled film starring Atharva and has set her foot in Tollywood too.

CE FEATURES

BLAKE Lively will be directing a feature film for the first time with Seconds. She is famous for starring in Gossip Girl and films like The Shallows, she'll be behind the camera for a film for the first time with Seconds.
